First Step to Join Lands of Three Powers

Rome—(P)—Italian occupation of Zeila, westernmost port in British Somaliland, is the first step in a move by the Italians to join British and French Somaliland in the African offensive now under way, a high fascist authority indicated today.

(British sources in London said today that Britain might give Italy a "cheap victory" in British Somaliland by withdrawing her forces from desert wastes considered not worth defending.)

The capture of Zeila, near the frontier between British and French Somaliland, was described officially as of great strategic importance.

Capture of the port was announced in today's high command communiqué, which said Zeila had been taken after a 3-day march from Ethiopia, which is 50 miles from Zeila at the nearest point.

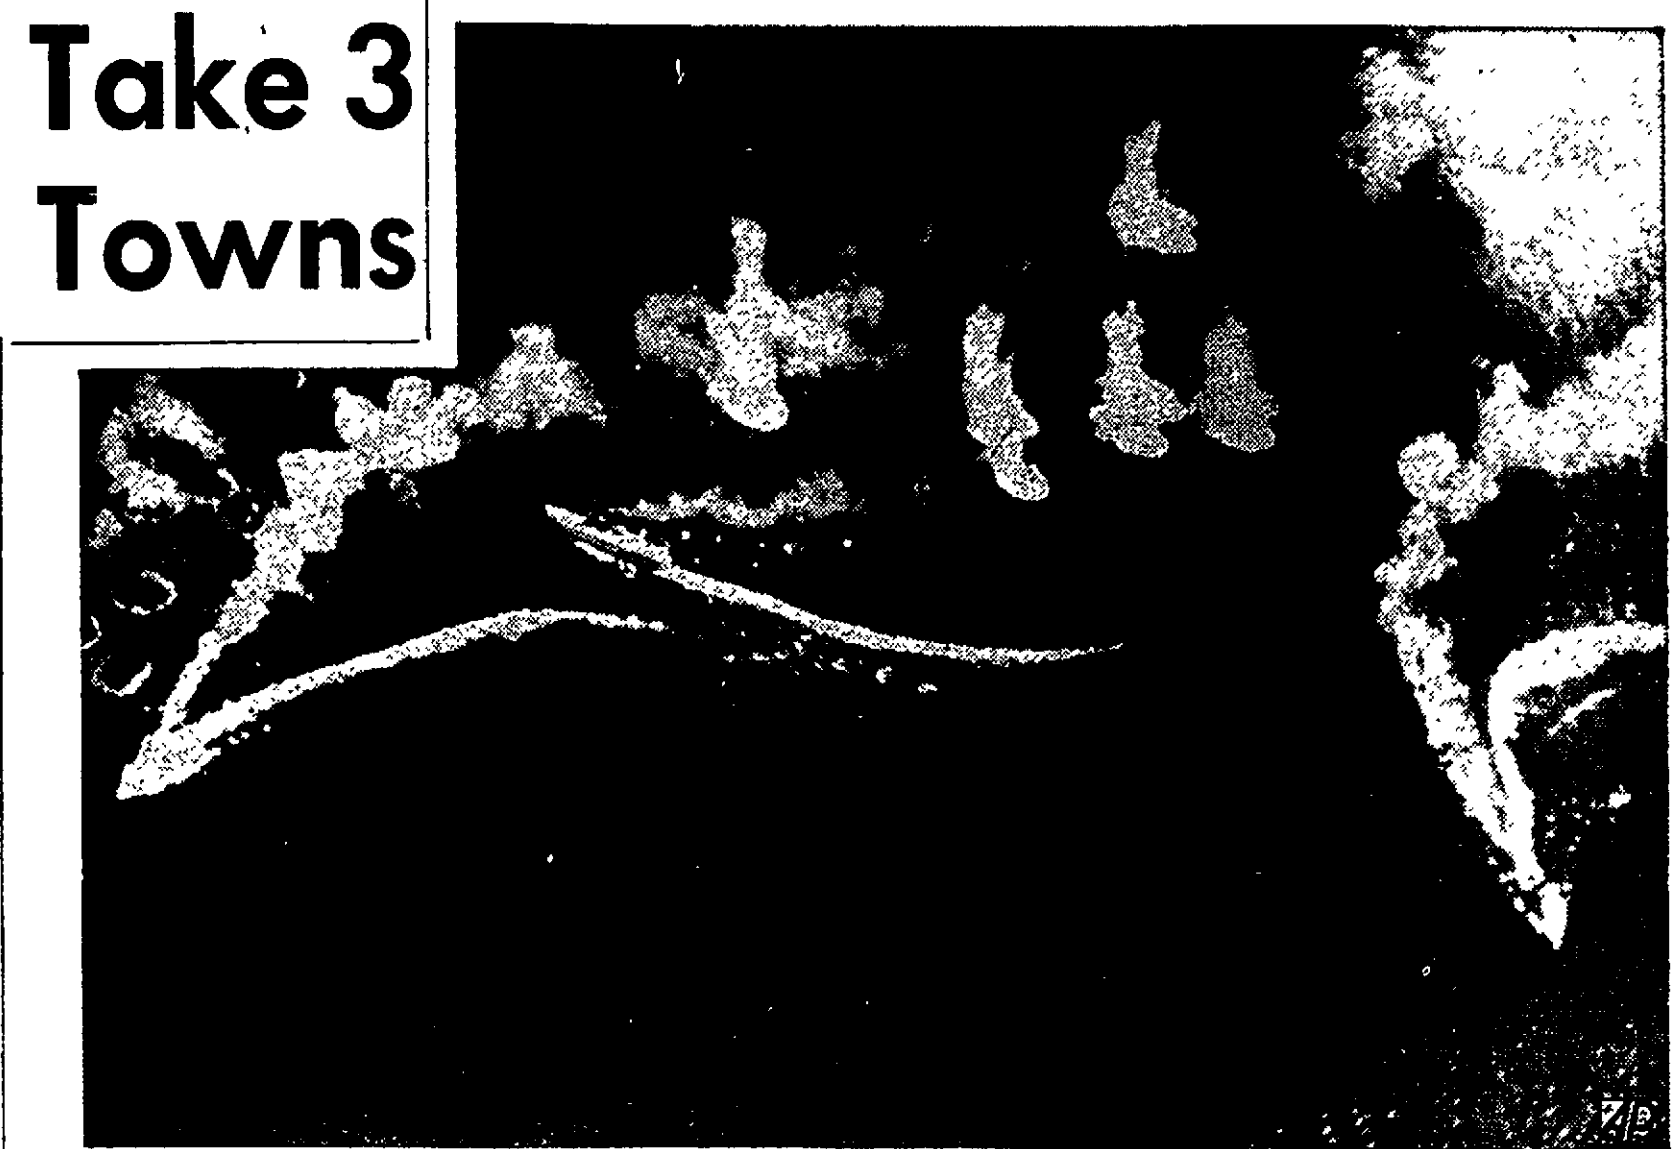

(The British announced loss of Zeila yesterday.)

Zeila, and Berbera, capital of British Somaliland and largest port in the protectorate, are the natural outlets to the Gulf of Aden—a sort of window on the Indian ocean—Italians said.

The Italian communiqué today said their armored columns, accompanied by bombing planes, were well advanced on the way to Berbera, having occupied Oadweina on Tuesday, as well as Hargelsa.

Both are about 30 miles inside the arid country, but a difficult march of 100 miles through rough terrain remains from Hargelsa, the nearest point, to Berbera.

(A British communiqué from Cairo today said the shipping harbor and store building were bombed at Bardia.)

BRITISH SHIPS SPREAD AS ITALIANS DROP BOMBS—The British censor-approved caption on this picture said that it shows three British ships under fire of Italian bombers. No other data was given. Notice that the three ships appear to be spreading so as not to form a collective target. Presumably the picture was taken from a British plane engaged in the action.

May Take War Debt Out of French Funds

Morgenthau Discloses U. S. Might Get Money From Frozen Securities

Washington—(P)—Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today that the United States was considering the possibility of taking World War debt payments out of frozen French funds in this country.

When the subject of war debts was raised at his press conference, the treasury chief said that before French funds were released he wanted to see "what happens to American investments and debts over there."

The treasury head had referred many times to the possibility of offsetting American business and other losses in the invaded European countries against the funds of those countries being held here, but formerly he had given no reply to inquiries about World War indebtedness.

France alone owes this country about $4,000,000,000 from the last war.

Asked whether the freezing regulations, imposed upon the funds belonging to invalid nations and their peoples, also applied to Germany, Morgenthau replied:

"No, any amount of money can be sent to Germany, and there is nothing we can do about it. It's silly but we are at peace with Germany and cannot do anything about its funds."

A reporter remarked that this country also was at peace with France but had frozen her funds. Morgenthau explained that what he meant was that freezing orders applied only to invaded countries, rather than ones at war.

He gave no estimate of the frozen funds, which had been rumored to total several billion dollars. All the American funds of France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Denmark and Norway have been tied up.

Britain Must Feed Occupied Countries

Berlin—(P)—Britain is responsible for feeding the populations in countries occupied by German troops because she is responsible for their entering the war against Germany, Diering aus Deutschland, authoritative commentary, observed today.

The article said it was written in reply to British press assertions that Germany was responsible for the care and feeding of persons in the occupied areas and that Adolf Hitler had declared in his last speech that "the feeding of Europe is assured."

"Hitler spoke not of an assured European but of an assured German supply," Diering aus Deutschland said.

Registration of Aliens to be Launched in Appleton Aug. 27

Registration and finger-printing of non-citizens will begin in Appleton Aug. 27 as part of the alien registration program throughout United States and its possessions authorized by congress. Several copies of a 12-page pamphlet containing instructions for the program, were received today by Stephen A. Balliet, postmaster.

The program for all aliens over 14 years of age will continue to Dec. 26, and will include finger-printing. Questionnaires and finger-printing apparatus have not yet been received for Appleton registration, but the Appleton post office will be prepared to conduct the registration, Balliet said.

The Alien Registration act of 1940 provides that non-citizens of Wisconsin, as well as all other states, will be expected to report to post offices during the four month registration period and reply to 13 questions and be fingerprinted.

Willkie Demands Change in Hatch Law; Roosevelt Mapping Strategy

Seeks Help of Hoover, Landon To Amend Act

Colorado Springs, Colo. — (P) — Aides of Wendell L. Willkie said today he would ask former President Herbert Hoover and Alf M. Landon, the 1936 Republican nominee, to support his demand for broad amendments to the Hatch Anti-Politics law.

Willkie told his press conference yesterday the existing act should be amended to require the president, cabinet officers and all other now exempt officials to file sworn statements of their assets upon taking office and upon leaving office.

He added that another desirable amendment would be a provision prohibiting any member of a family of an official from receiving compensation for representing clients before federal agencies.

The Republican nominee will have a luncheon conference with Landon at his resort hotel here next Tuesday. He will see Hoover in Denver sometime next week.

If he is elected, Willkie said, he and members of his family will file statements of personal assets with the secretary of state regardless of whether the Hatch law is amended.

"I am in favor of all amendments to the Hatch act necessary to make it air-tight in carrying out both its provisions and spirit," Willkie declared.

The Hatch law prohibits political activity by federal workers and

Seven Major Oil Firms Are Sued for $180,000

St. Louis—(P)—Seven major oil companies, among 12 recently convicted of violating the Sherman anti-trust act by conspiring to control gasoline prices in the middle west, were sued for $180,000 in federal court today by the H. Miller Oil company of Festus, Mo.

The plaintiff alleged the conspiracy damaged its jobbing business $60,000 and asked triple damages. It charged tank car prices were artificially increased through the conspiracy on gasoline the plaintiff bought outside Missouri and transported to this state.

Named as defendants were: Continental Oil company, Socoy-Vacuum Oil company, Sinclair Refining company, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation, Phillips Petroleum company, Skelly Oil company, and Shell-Oil company, named as successor to the Shell Petroleum corporation, one of the convicted companies.

F.D.R. Confers With Aides to Set Party Course

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—A conference with secretaries Wallace and Hopkins, which may set the course for the Democratic campaign, was the major item on President Roosevelt's schedule today.

There was nothing to indicate whether the three would discuss immediately any strategy that might be devised, particularly since Wallace, the vice presidential nominee, has said he would keep out of the political arena until he has accepted his nomination officially. He will do that about Aug. 20.

From then on, he was expected to shoulder the big share of the job of carrying the campaign to the public. Mr. Roosevelt has asserted he could get in few political licks because of world conditions, the defense program and the continuing session of congress.

The reason for Hopkins' participation in the conference was not disclosed, but he is a close friend of the president, and he figured prominently in convention maneuvers which resulted in the third term nomination and selection of Wallace for a running mate.

A side attraction to the conference was a tea and garden party at Mrs. Roosevelt's Valkill cottage on the Turn to page 11 col. 4

First Lady of Michigan Dies

Wife of Governor Dickinson Is Dead At Her Farm Home

Charlotte, Mich.—(P)—Mrs. Zora Cooley Dickinson, wife of Governor Luren D. Dickinson, died early today at her farm home near here. She was 75.

Mrs. Dickinson had been in ill health for several years. Since Monday, when she lapsed into a coma, the governor had been in constant attendance at her bedside.

The 81-year-old chief executive and his wife would have celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on Oct. 16.

Joseph H. Creighton, executive secretary to the governor, decreed in Lansing an official 30-day period of mourning. Capitol flags flew at half mast today.

Mrs. Dickinson was born July 11, 1865, in a log cabin three miles from the modest farm home where she died. Married to Dickinson in 1883, she carried on as a farm wife while her husband advanced through 40 years of public life to become the state's chief executive. For a time, until her health failed, she made and sold butter, and served as a rural correspondent for the Charlotte newspaper.

The Dickinsons had no children. A brother and a sister, William H. Cooley and Mrs. Ada Spotts, survive.

Speed Guard Bill to Clear Way for Draft

Would Permit U. S. Ships for Refugee Trips

Washington—(P)—The house has voted to let American ships bring refugee children from war-torn nations to the United States, but the senate has yet to act.

The measure, approved yesterday without a roll call, would authorize transportation of youngsters under 16 on unarmed, unconvoyed American ships, provide safe conduct was assured by belligerent nations.

The neutrality act now prevents American vessels from entering combat areas.

The house was urged to "act, and act now" on the measure.

"If we have left a particle of our vaunted humanity, of our traditional disregard for the consequences of our time-honored concern for the welfare of innocent victims of political persecution, this house will not hesitate to act and act now," said Rep. Hennings (D-Mo.) author of the ship bill.

Rep. Michener (R-Mich.) said some ships might be sunk by mines even though guaranteed safe passage, as the bill requires, by belligerents. Rep. Kitchens (D-Ark.) said enactment might be "just a futile gesture" because Germany might not permit British refugees to be removed.

Compulsory War Training May be Ordered at U. W.

Washington—(P)—The senate agreed today to vote by 3 p. m. (CST) on legislation for calling out the national guard and officer and enlisted reserves for training. Both advocates and opponents predicted passage.

Disposal of the guard bill will clear the way for debate on the Burke-Wadsworth Compulsory Training bill, which could be taken up immediately.

The house military committee postponed a session on the guard-reserve measure today, Chairman May (D-Ky.) explaining that no further consideration would be given to it until the senate had acted.

Before voting, the senate had some amendments to consider. One, by Senator Adams (D-Colo.), would limit movement of the guard and reserves to the United States and its possessions.

Opposing this, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said that if any European power sought to seize any territory in South America he would "favor sending an army and navy down there to prevent it." He recalled that house and senate had by resolution recorded themselves as against transfer of Western Hemisphere territory from one non-American power to another.

Senate rejection of a proposal to let national guardsmen resign rather than enter active training pushed the militia mobilization bill to the verge of passage today.

The amendment to give guardsmen and reserves 20 days after the bill's passage in which they could turn in their uniforms failed yesterday, 47 to 35. It was offered by Senator Danaher (R-Conn.), who contended that many men had enlisted in the belief they would not be called to duty outside their own states unless congress declared war.

As soon as the guard bill is acted upon, the senate will take up the Burke-Wadsworth conscription measure. A closely-knit group of senators met yesterday in the office of Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) to plan for a "full debate, no compromise fight" against the legislation. The bill as approved by the senate military committee would require registration of all men from 21 to 30, inclusive, followed by a selective draft for a year's training.

Conscription Next

The conscription bill probably will not come up in the house until the senate has acted, because its military committee is going to reopen its hearings. Among the new witnesses will be General John J. Pershing, an advocate of compulsory military service, and Harry Woodring, former secretary of war who is supporting the voluntary enlistment plan.

The senate, with its floor and galleries crowded, heard a continuation yesterday of the heated personal argument between Senators Holt (D-W. Va.) and Minton (D-Ind.). Minton had applied the term "slacker" to Holt's family because of its stand against American participation in the World War.

Holt denied his brother was sent to South America at that time to avoid being drafted.

"I don't know what kind of service he gave to the army," Minton replied, "but everybody in West Virginia, everybody I talked to, says he went away to avoid service in the armed forces. That's the doctrine of slackers."

Senators Argue

"The senator from Indiana can search the gutters of West Virginia and find anything," Holt shouted, leaping to his feet. "Of course the senator would search there, feeling at home there."

Holt sat down, but Senator Lee (D-Okl.) arose to say that Holt had implied yesterday that Minton was intoxicated. This was unfounded, Lee declared, explaining that he had had Minton blow his breath in his face and that he smelled no liquor.

"I'm glad the senator from Oklahoma has become an expert on ballistics," Holt observed.

The exchanges finally brought a rebuke from Chairman Neely (D-W. Va.) of the rules committee.

"I serve notice," he said, "that henceforth I am going to make a point of order against any language that violates the rules and against pitching debate here on a level that would do no credit to a bar room brawl."

The national guard bill authorizing the president to order the national guard and reserve units into active service would make approximately 398,700 men subject to immediate call to duty.

Army officials have said, however, that immediate plans call only for the induction into active service of 55,426 enlisted men, 33 warrant officers and 3,930 officers of the national guard.

Violence Flares In Controversy Over Fish Nets

Trio Faces Charges; Wardens Report Tug Smashes Equipment

Sheboygan—The District Attorney Fulton H. Leterman, issued warrants charging three fishermen with the use of illegal mesh nets yesterday, as violence in the commercial fishing controversy flared in Lake Michigan 20 miles off Two Rivers.

Preliminary hearings for the trio will be held Friday. They are Arthur Lubbock, Conrad La Fond, and Arthur Lerner, all of Two Rivers.

Game Warden Herbert Vonderbloem, of Manitowish, and Robert Lake, of West Bend, told Leterman that a tug smashed their net hither while the wardens were directing the removal of nets from the lake. Another tug bore down upon the wardens' boat, and almost collided with it, the wardens reported.

May Report Incidents

Leterman said he told the wardens to report the incident to federal authorities.

Meanwhile it was revealed that 63 boxes of nets, valued at $3,200, belonging to Two Rivers commercial fishing firms, have been seized by conservation department wardens.

Yesterday's developments climaxed a long dispute over the size of mesh which may be used. The state supreme court has ruled constitutional the state conservation department's order prohibiting nets with less than two and one-half inch mesh in Lake Michigan and Green Bay.

Two Rivers fishermen strongly opposed the ruling, and began setting nets several weeks ago after a three-month lapse, contending that the wording of a modified order issued by the commission permitted them to use nets of two and three-eighths inch mesh.

Riom Selected For 'Blame' Trial

Court Installed to Hear Charges Against French Statesmen

Riom, France—(AP)—The formal setting for the "war blame" trial, called here "the greatest trial in French history," was laid today in this ancient city where the supreme court of deflated France will sit to determine who and how many led the nation to disaster and what punishment they should suffer.

Inauguration of the nation's new high tribunal, brought into being by the Pétain-Laval government, and charged specifically with judging acts and men of previous regimes, will lead at once to exhaustive investigation of factors which involved France in an ill fated war against Germany.

Minister of Justice Raphael Albert, who personally is installing the court of seven justices and two alternates in the historic palais du justice, has charged it with: "Seeking out responsibilities directly incurred through foreign, internal and military policies that led to the situation in which France now finds herself."

Today's brief ceremony of installation turns over the tribunal to 62-year old Pierre Caous, former criminal court president twice wounded in the World War and twice cited for bravery.

Catus, as president of the supreme court, will have direct charge of the trials.

The war blame inquiry itself may not get under way for several days. Weeks, and even months, of judicial investigation may issue before the defendants are officially named and specific charges entered against them.

Fred Clausen Says He Understands Farm Woes

Dodgeville—Fred H. Clausen, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, told an informal meeting of party workers yesterday that "agriculture is the basis of all our prosperity."

"I know the Wisconsin farmers and their problems as well as I know myself and my own problems," he said. "I have dealt with Wisconsin farmers for many, many years, and I have of necessity had to understand their troubles. The American farmer must be protected and placed on a parity with other economic units of our population. "Labor, the farm, and industry must prosper together."

IL DUCE MAKES HIS MOVE

A half million legionnaires of Mussolini's Roman empire started to move in Africa, playing for the highest stakes they have sought since ancient Rome ruled the world. Italian authorities said their Libyan troops had advanced into Egypt, striking toward the Suez canal while from Ethiopian bases columns thrust into British Somaliland and Kenya (black arrows.) A drive from Italian East Africa into Anglo-Egyptian Sudan was anticipated from the British, who realize the importance of Egypt to Il Duce's dream of empire.

Il Duce Still Has Long Row To Hoe to Get at Suez Canal

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(AP)—Signor Mussolini has heaved off for himself a considerable piece of Britain's hot and inhospitable Somaliland but, while in theory this may have advanced him toward control of the southern gateway to the Suez canal, one suspects that practically he may find it a mixed blessing.

There is more than meets the eye in the seeming complacency of the English as they pursue what they describe as a strategy of "active defense" and give ground to numerically superior invaders. The reasons are several.

For one thing there are no supplies for the Italians in either British Somaliland or in adjoining French Somaliland which they are using as a base. They must depend on what they have in their African possessions, for the Suez canal—only direct communication with Italy is closed to them.

Somalis are Tough

Then the fascist forces likely are headed into a bunch of grief with the Somalis. These natives will fight at the drop of the hat. They are anti-everything that's foreign, and the Italians must expect to have to conquer them before consolidating their gains.

Beyond all this, however, is the vital fact that Il Duce can't get control of the Suez canal and the eastern Mediterranean without smashing Egypt and ousting the British.

Or, to get right down to cases, the outcome of this whole African show is likely to be determined, not on the Sahara but on the English channel. For as Hitler's blitzkrieg against England goes, so will go the conflict on the dark continent.

Should the Italians undertake the assault on Egypt, we shall have a campaign that will present the other extreme of the terrible conditions under which the Russo-Finnish war waged. Then wounded soldiers froze stiff as they fell in the killing temperature of 52 degrees below zero. Now men will be called to fight under a sun which registers maybe 125 and produces a soil temperature of 175 degrees.

Turks Turned Trick

If Mussolini does try to send an army across the Sahara he will have something of a precedent to go by, though circumstances differ somewhat. In August, 1916, the Turks achieved this remarkable feat and the horror known as the battle of Romani resulted, with a great Turkish defeat.

That conflict was waged among the sand dunes in a heat so intense that men practically cooked to death.

The fortunes of Italy in an Egyptian campaign will rest in the hands of one of the greatest desert fighters of all time—Marshal Graziani, conqueror of Cirenaica and Libya.

Texts, Louisiana Hit by Hurricane

Port Arthur, Tex.—(AP)—A tropical hurricane blew itself out inland today after killing at least one person, injuring 10 and damaging property in the Sabina area of Texas and Louisiana.

Scores were marooned as 75 mile winds roared into Texas from the east and struck Port Arthur, Orange and Beaumont.

Houses were unroofed, trees uprooted and advertising signs sent whirling through the air. Six persons were injured at Port Arthur and three at Beaumont where damage to windows and small buildings was widespread. None of the injured was reported hurt seriously.

Unofficially, damage was estimated at Port Arthur at $100,000. Jefferson county agent J. F. Combs said damage to the rice crop in that section may reach $500,000.

The body of a Chinese was found in Bayou Barataria at Crown Point, La.

Launch New Car ferry At Manitowoc, Sept. 18

Manitowoc—(AP)—The $2,000,000 steamship Pere Marquette car ferry, now under construction here, will be launched Sept. 18 and will be christened the City of Midland.

Double crews are at work on the vessel and construction is proceeding on schedule, Lee H. Kent, marine superintendent of the Pere Marquette line, reported. The City of Midland will have a capacity of 34 standard freight cars and will accommodate 50 automobiles on the upper deck.

Officials of the line plan to place the ship in operation by next March, but have not determined whether to place her in service between Ludington and Manitowoc or Milwaukee and Ludington.

Margin Over Stark Is Closest Missouri Vote in 18 Years

St. Louis—(AP)—His nearest Democratic rival, Governor Lloyd C. Stark, trailing by 7,136 votes with only 119 rural precincts yet to report, United States Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri today appeared to have won re-nomination in Tuesday's primary election.

Both men declined to comment, however, pending a complete count of the vote, including absentee ballots estimated at between 5,000 and 10,000.

Unofficial returns from 4,328 out of 4,447 precincts gave Truman, who is completing his first term, 261,721 votes; Stark 254,585, and Maurice M. Milligan, former federal district attorney at Kansas City, 125,024.

It was the closest contest in Missouri since Senator James A. Reed's 5,900-vote triumph over Breckenridge Long in 1922.

Other major races were settled. Lawrence McDaniel, St. Louis excise commissioner, won the Democratic nomination for governor. His Republican opponent in November will be Forrest Donnell, St. Louis lawyer.

The Republican United States senatorial nomination went to Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City.

Minnesota Gets Taste of 'War'

Approaching Planes Are Announced by Shrieking Sirens

Little Falls, Minn.—(AP)—Shrieking police sirens spread a city wide alarm that sent pedestrians scrambling and stopped traffic for several minutes as enemy planes detected by a civilian aircraft warning service, neared this headquarters in afternoon and evening raids today.

It was part of the maneuvers of the fourth army in training here.

As approaching planes were heading into Little Falls, police cars patrolled the streets with open sirens to warn citizens, and, if the nation were in a state of war, to give them an opportunity to escape into bombproof shelters.

In the operations center, an illuminated map followed the flights of three planes each over circuits from southern Minnesota and western North Dakota. As observers transmitted information by code message to central headquarters, data was plotted by means of lights on a large recording board.

Observers chosen from seven railroads, CCC camps, forest ranger service, American Legion and power companies, served as lookouts.

Major General P. P. Bishop, commander of the seventh corps, described the aircraft warning service drills as successful.

State Guard Officers Will Get Promotions

Madison—(AP)—Promotions to place Wisconsin national guard officers on an equal basis with officers of the regular army are being worked out by Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell's office.

General Immell's aides said it had not been determined how many would be affected but that the promotions would be announced in the near future.

The national guard received authority to increase its peace time strength and to promote officers who normally were one rank below those of the regular army.

Nazis Lose Nine Planes in Battle Over English Coast

War Situation Today

A violent air battle which cost the Nazis at least nine planes and the British two fighting craft raged over the channel and the southeastern coast of England for an hour today.

Six of the German planes lost were bombers, the others chasers and escort planes.

But even as Britons cheered this new evidence of growing power of the RAF, many were concerned with developments in that hot dry corner of northeast Africa where Britain sought to unify the greatest possession of her empire for an amassing of manpower and wealth against Germany and Italy, the latter now driving for an outlet into the Indian ocean.

One objective appeared to be to tap the wealth of the Indian empire in men and gold, both vital to the British war effort and of especial significance in view of the Italian threat.

The concession Britain was prepared to make to India, where nationalist demands for independence have been rebuffed, were outlined in parliament.

Slight Damage

After a night of comparative quiet, German bombers carried out extensive raids on Great Britain, dropping bombs and leaflets containing extracts of Hitler's recent Reichstag address. A British communiqué said casualties were few and damage slight.

In Africa Italians held the port of Zeila, seized in a short march from French Somaliland, and aimed a principal drive across British Somaliland toward Berbera. The British said massed Libyan troops have not yet pushed across the frontier into the west Egyptian desert.

In France the new supreme court was called to its first session today at Riom with its No. 1 job of lengthy investigation to fix the blame for France's war blunders and to punish the guilty.

Hungary served notice on Rumania that she would be content with no less than 75 per cent of the Rumanian province of Transylvania in their territorial dispute in which Adolf Hitler is said to have advised Rumania to settle promptly.

British Hero

London—(AP)—Heroism of a British pilot who crashed to his death in the sea in a blazing plane saved a southeast coast town from a disaster today.

The pilot remained at his controls to avert what appeared to be an inevitable crash into buildings of the town. As a result of his guidance, the plane fell in the water 50 yards from shore.

A British force sought to block Italy's intended conquest of the continent.

British military authorities in London, conceding capture of Zeila in British Somaliland, expressed belief the fascist forces would have a tough time taking Berbera, principal port of the country, and connected with Zeila by a 150 mile motor road.

Meanwhile as the British kept one eye on the menace of a blitzkrieg and the other on Mussolini's African campaign, India was promised "free and equal partnership" in the British commonwealth, as

125,000 Gallons of Oil Have Been Placed on County Roads

About 125,000 gallons of oil have been used on the county trunk highway system thus far this summer, and about the same amount still is to be distributed, according to Arnold Krueger, county highway commissioner.

A skin mat is being placed on Meade street between Wisconsin avenue and Superhighway 47, and also on County Trunk A north of County Trunk O. County Trunk S, between Freedom and Murphy's Corners is being widened and graded. About $1,700 is being spent in repairing the skin mat on Highway 55, commencing at the junction of Highway 47 and extending to the concrete pavement north of Seymour, a distance of three miles.

Work was started this week on a metal storage building adjacent to the county garage. The building is being erected by the Butler Manufacturing company which was awarded the contract on a bid of $4,905. Two bridges also are under construction in the county. The skin mat on Highway 156 from Wunderlich and Bleick company, junction of Highway 47 to Shawano, county line at a cost of $2,800; repaving a bituminous mat on Highway 54 from Seymour to New London at a cost of $4,000; and placing skin on newly constructed Bear Creek bridge and approaches at a cost of $200.

All projects now in progress will be completed this summer, Krueger said.

W.C.T.U. Bar Is Beverage Board

New Drink Recipes For Non-Alcoholics Served From 'Board'

Chicago—(AP)—The Woman's Christian Temperance union introduced the "beverage board" today as a handy gadget for the nation's drinkers of non-alcoholic liquids.

It's simply a board covered with gaily-colored oilcloth and set on legs, with an oilcloth "hoop skirt" hiding the ice bucket and jugs of fruit- or berry juices. Its equipment of glasses, cups, straws, napkins and pitchers should be in matching colors.

Mrs. Blanch Pennington of Huntington, Pa., director of the W. C. T. U. non-alcoholic fruit products department, said the contrivance shouldn't be mistaken for a portable cocktail bar.

"No, indeed," she said, "it is not a bar; it must not be called a bar. It is a beverage board."

It is another of the novelties in non-alcoholic drinking advocated by Mrs. Pennington's department which has issued a series of pamphlets giving recipes for thirst-quenching, vari-colored drinks that have not the slightest tinge of alcohol.

Her latest, she said, is a current flip. Pour currant juice in a tall glass with ice cubes in which bits of mint have been frozen; add lemon juice and a garnish of a thin slice of lemon and mint sprigs. Juice of the red raspberry may be added.

Alaskan Pilots Paved Way For Territorial Rearmament

BY DEVON FRANCIS
Fairbanks, Alaska — (P) — In an area where airplanes are a more familiar sight than anywhere else in the world, pioneer pilots braving burning heat and frigid cold for years have been paving the way for territorial air rearmament.

A good many of the problems which otherwise would have faced the army and the navy in constructing new bases to buttress the nation's air defense were whittled down by a series of airmen to whom flying was only a workaday task.

A sizeable book on Alaskan flying, both along the fog and rain-drenched seacoast and in the vast, formidable reaches of the interior, already had been compiled when congress a few months ago began turning its attention to the necessity for territorial air defense.

Alaska adopted the airplane in 1924 because of the territory's great distances, its mountains and the rigorous winters of the interior. Dog teams—still used generously—were sure, but slow, and the exploitation of a land with resources even yet hardly tapped required faster transport and communication.

Fairbanks, focal point of Alaska flying, today has more than 50 planes based at its port—one for every 75 persons living within the city limits.

Lacks Airports
But in spite of the tremendous amount of commercial flying in Alaska in the past 15 years, the territory as yet lacks even one first-class airport. There are about 120 "fields" of one character or another. Radio aids to navigation are few. Men fly over desolate hun-

dreeds of miles, under low "ceilings" and through driving rains by precise navigation and an intimate knowledge of the terrain. "Off there," remarked a Pacific Alaska Airways pilot during a flight from Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, to Fairbanks, "about 25 miles is a settlement of three white men and a handful of Indians."

In the direction he pointed the terrain to the horizon looked exactly like that the plane had been passing over for 30 minutes—range upon range of low mountains apparently without a distinguishing landmark. A landing there would have meant a broken plane, possibly injury to personnel and passengers, because most of the green, inviting ground actually was treacherous moors overlying pools of water.

Radio Beam Station
Here at Fairbanks a recently-installed radio "beam" station has developed split or multiple courses so that an unpracticed pilot can get an "on course" signal over an area of 15 miles. That is due to the high mineralization of the soil. Radio signals bounce and scatter on impact with it.

So much more remarkable, then, is the safety record of the scheduled and "for hire" pilots whose operations radiate to points as far away as Akavik, Northwest terri-

Make Rankin Stop Street, Aldermen Ask

Point to Accidents; Matter Is Referred Back to Committee

Adoption of committee reports with little delay—except for an argument over a proposal to place stop signs at three intersections on N. Rankin street—constituted the principal items of business at last night's city council meeting in city hall.

The traffic committee had returned to it for further study a recommendation that stop signs be placed on both sides of Rankin street at its intersections with Washington, Franklin, and Eldorado streets.

Police Chief George T. Prim was among those who voiced opposition to the proposal, but enough aldermen were in favor of it so that before discussion had ended it had been suggested that Rankin street be made an arterial from College avenue to Wisconsin avenue. Alderman De Land pointed to a number of accidents at the three corners in question as warranting the stop signs and other aldermen expressed hope that the stop signs would be posted at other Rankin street intersections.

Although there was some opposition evident, the city council voted $300 to the Appleton Trades and Labor council for its Labor day celebration at Pierce park Aug. 31-Sept. 2.

After Alderman De Land had reported long-standing complaints against the Western Condensing company, 935 E. John street, because smoke and soot dirtied residential districts near it, John Pierre, city building inspector, reported that the plant's new boiler equipment aimed to eliminate this went into operation this week.

Traffic Restricted
Passed were traffic committee recommendations that only north-bound traffic be allowed on S. Appleton street beneath the Prospect avenue viaduct and that the request of the Fox River Bus line to extend its Mason street route over N. Richmond street, Parkway Boulevard and N. Morrison street be granted.

The council voted $30 to Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, county WPA recreation supervisor, for a comic opera to be presented by children at Pierce park Aug. 18-19. The money will go for costumes and music. The council also voted to hire a girl attendant at the Lutz park lagoon for one month at a salary of $50 for the month.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., reported that plans for the new Hunter swimming pool which will be constructed at Erb park had arrived, but that he was awaiting plans for the buildings.

The council granted Company D of the 127th infantry $20 to purchase trophies to be presented winners of firing contests. Captain H. J. Piette, company commander, reported in a letter that the plan is to have traveling trophies.

The council accepted a board of public works report carrying the following recommendations:

That the bid of L. L. Doerfler for one tank car of gasoline at .0717 per gallon be accepted.

That the installation of sewer laterals on Superior street from Parkway Boulevard to the city limits be awarded to Irvin F. Thomas on a bid of $1 a foot and also on Winnebago street from Richmond to Badger avenue at 90 cents a foot.

Coping Bid

That the bid of the Gochbauer Concrete Products company for colored concrete coping at $1 per running foot for the stadium be accepted.

That the bid of Julius O. Johnson for rental of the trench-digging machine for 1940-41 be accepted.

That the water department install water service connections where needed on Superior street from Parkway Boulevard to city limits and on W. Winnebago from Richmond street to Badger avenue at $16 per service connection.

A street committee report which was accepted carried the following recommendations:

Building of a storm sewer at St. Elizabeth hospital by the street department.

That the street and gutter on N. Division street from Wisconsin avenue to Parkway Boulevard, the board to assess benefits and damages.

That plans for sewer on N. Linwood avenue, from Wisconsin avenue to Summer street, be adopted and the work done as a taxpayers' job.

That curb and gutter be built on N. Division street from Wisconsin avenue to Parkway Boulevard and that the engineer prepare plans for improving the street with soil cement stabilized pavement, the work to be done under the 1941 program; curb and gutter be built on Spring street from Appleton to Oneida.

Will Buy Trailer

That the street and bridge committee buy a trailer for moving the shovel from one job to another. (Alderman Harold Douglas expressed satisfaction at the word of Alderman Joseph Franzke that the trailer would be second-hand. "I'd hate to see the city buy a new trailer for a second-hand shovel," Douglas said.)

Last night's meeting was the official hearing for the proposed curb and gutter on Union street from Nicholas to Alice and on S. Bouten streets. No one appeared for the hearing, and the assessments were confirmed.

The council accepted a recommendation of the water committee that a water main be installed on Bounds street from its present terminus to one block south.

Referred to the traffic committee was a request from Lawrence college to place three signs along College avenue between Lawe and Durkee streets on the south side of the avenue.

According to Ralph J. Watts, college business agent, the signs would indicate the Lawrence campus.

The following low bids for fuel for city buildings for the 1940-41 season were accepted:

Lutz Ice company, Elkhorn prepared stoker coal, $7.65 per ton; Elkhorn prepared stoker coal in car lots, $6.40 per ton.

Henry Schabo and Son, Elkhorn egg coal, $8.50 ton; Elkhorn stove coal, $8.35 ton; Pocahontas egg, $10.50 ton; Pocahontas nut, $9.50 ton.

New Sub-Division

Loopholes in New Hatch Law, Lawrence Says

Writer Expects Willkie To Abide by Spirit as Well as Letter of Law

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Anyone who takes the time to read with painstaking care the provisions of the various laws governing campaign contributions including the new Hatch law and a number of amendments, will find it is permissible to do the following things:

First, to collect or spend $3,000.00 in each of the 48 states of the union respectively for political purposes provided there is absolutely no connection between each of these committees.

Second, to collect contributions in excess of $5,000 from individuals provided the sums used are for specific candidates on state tickets as differentiated from national tickets and provided that the expenditures collectively do not promote "the success of any national party."

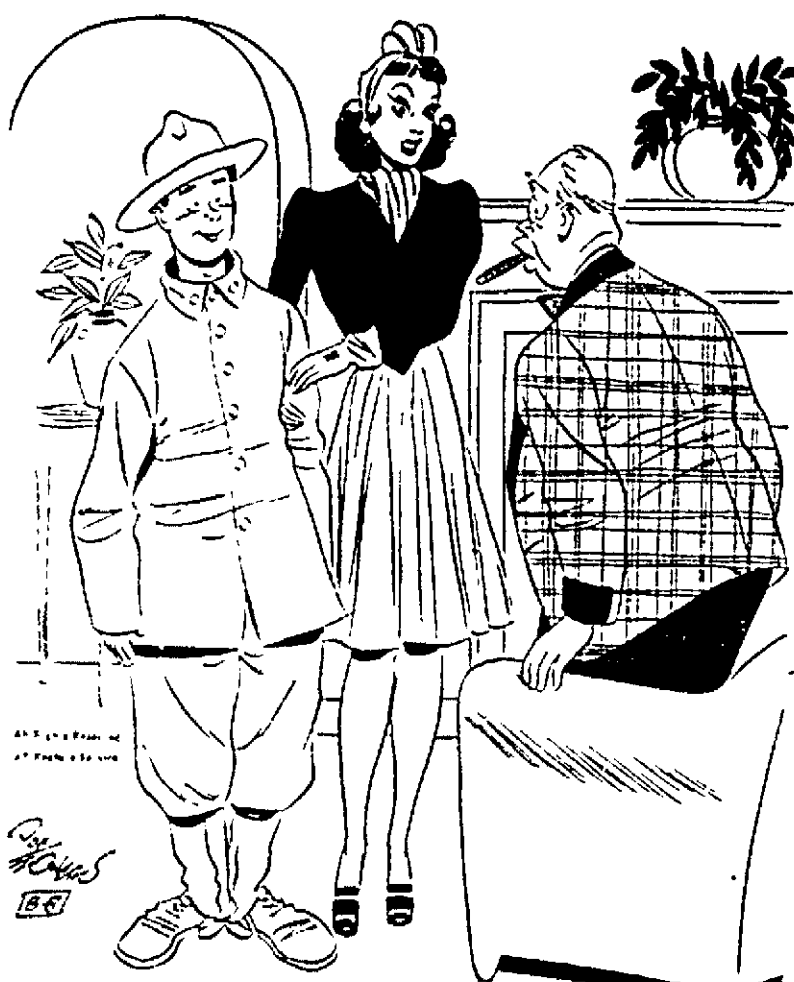

As a practical proposition Wendell Willkie, Republican nominee for the presidency, has already declared that he will not permit his party managers to take advantage of the loopholes in the law which permit the organization of three separate committees in his behalf. What Mr. Willkie intends to do about the second aspect—the right of individuals to contribute in excess of $5,000, if they confine themselves to state committees—is not yet known, but it would be surprising indeed if the Republican nominee didn't put his foot down hard on the use of any loophole to violate the spirit if not the letter of the law. What President Roosevelt will do is not known, but it is a fact that in 1936 he and the department of justice winked at the violation of the federal corrupt practices act in connection with the sale of Democratic campaign books to corporations.

The first loophole in the Hatch law of 1940—and it probably isn't fair to call a palpable exemption by such a name—occurs in Sections 20. It says that "no political committee shall receive contributions aggregating more than $3,000,000 or make expenditures aggregating more than $3,000,000 during any calendar year."

But what is a "political committee"? To find out the meaning of any term used, the Hatch law says:

MODEST MAIDENS

Trademark Registered U. S. Patent Office

"Look! Hubert's enlisted! Now there's nothing to worry about!"

Terms used in this section shall have the meaning assigned to them in section 302 of the Federal Corrupt Practices act, 1925, and the penalties provided in such act shall apply to violations of this section."

Going back to the text of the 1925 Federal Corrupt Practices act, we find this paragraph:

"The term 'political committee' includes any committee, association or organization which accepts contributions or makes expenditures for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the election of candidates or presidential and vice presidential electors (1) in two or more states, or (2) whether or not in more than one state if such committee, association, organization (other than a duly organized state or local committee of a political party) is a branch or subsidiary of a national committee, association or organization."

Now it is possible for political organizations to rise up in every state of the union in either political party and for each to maintain absolutely no connection with a national political organization. But as a practical matter, political campaigns aren't handled that way. There's an exchange of literature as well as ideas and local political committees must be kept from doing things off their own bat which might embarrass the national tickets. Indiscretions are sometimes the boomerangs that lose votes overnight after costly expenditures have been made.

The safety course for both major parties to pursue is to warn all individuals they must not contribute any more than $5,000. This doesn't mean that other members of the same family cannot make such contributions, but the gift tax laws must be observed so that if money is donated to any other member of a family for the purpose of a political contribution, the letter of the tax laws as well as the Hatch law shall be followed.

The Hatch law says, moreover, it is unlawful "for any person, directly or indirectly, to make contributions in excess of $5,000, during any calendar year." The words "directly or indirectly" would seem to preclude the possibility of having a contribution made to a state committee which ultimately finds its way into some use that benefits the national ticket. It will be a hard thing to prove just where state committee work ends and national party organizations begin, but it is doubtful whether either political management in the presidential campaign will wish to take any chances.

A contributor, of course, who sends money to a state committee does so with the expectation it will be used for a state campaign, and if the managers of the latter use it for billboards, for example, that contain the names of both the national and state party nominees, there is

State Printing Bill Exceeds Total Budget of Good-Sized Badger City

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Annual expenditures of the state government for printing exceed the total budget of a good-sized Wisconsin city, a survey of state printing costs showed here today.

The average annual cost of the numerous state departments for printing and paper for the innumerable publications, bulletins, reports and other material is approximately $400,000.

The figure does not include the editorial costs involved in preparing the material for the printer, nor the costs of photographs and engravings which add the multitude of state publications. Nor does the figure include the countless pieces of mimeographed material published by state departments.

Biggest customer of the state printer is the University of Wisconsin, which devotes nearly $100,000 of its budget for the purchase of books, catalogs and other published material in editions running into the thousands.

Biggest single printing order, however, is accounted for by the state legislature, which during the year it is in session spends about $105,000 for the printing of its proceedings, another $26,000 for the publication of the session laws and statutes, and an additional $15,000 for the paper required in those huge printing orders.

Under the classification of "book work"—which includes pamphlets of rules and regulations of the regulatory departments, published sets of orders such as those issued by the public service and industrial commissions, or annual reports of department activities—the state printer annually approves expenditures aggregating $171,000 for printing and $35,000 more for paper stock.

That classification includes, for example, the monthly news bulletin of the state conservation department, called the "Wisconsin Conservation Bulletin."

Because the costs of that bulletin and other publications of the state government have shown a steady nothing the individual can do about it.

It is true, as Henry Fletcher of the general counsel of the Republican committee has stated, that the Hatch law of July 1940 says the subsection containing the limitations about the $5,000 contributions "shall not apply to contributions made to or by a state or local committee or other state or local organization."

Who is going to police the state political organizations? It has been held by the courts that state political organizations are not subject to federal supervision unless some connection with a national organization can be proved.

trend upward in recent years, state printing costs today are higher than they have ever been before.

Expand Circulation: Formerly the bulletin had a limited circulation of around 10,000 copies. Last year, however, conservation department officials decided to expand circulation by sending copies to every school in Wisconsin, and today during the school term the circulation hovers around 24,000 copies, at a cost of about 1,200 a month for printing, paper and engravings.

Figures reported by the printing board, however, do not include editorial costs.

Most of the big departments, for example, have at least one full-time editor or publicity man to prepare their publications. Several have more than one person engaged in such work. It requires the work of a full-time editor in the conservation department to publish its bulletin, and he has the assistance of numerous other staff employees.

Another heavy spender for printing is the state department of agriculture, which has several publicity men on its payroll.

One of the best known of that department's publications is a book devoted to Wisconsin agriculture and Wisconsin as a scenic center. Now in its second edition, the first edition of that book cost $4,848, exclusive of editorial and photographic costs. The book is being revised for a third edition.

No Charge: None of the state's numerous publications is self-sustaining. All are distributed in unlimited quantities to taxpayers and others free of charge, with the exception of the official Blue book. However, the legislature has provided that state officials and members of the senate and assembly receive so many complimentary copies that almost everyone is able to get a copy without paying the nominal $1 charge.

The result is that sales are negligible in comparison with the average cost of $20,000 involved in the preparation and printing of each edition.

The conservation department spends about $35,000 annually for printing and paper, the board of health about 15,000, the department of agriculture $25,000, the highway commission $12,000, the industrial commission $12,000, the public service commission $30,000, and the teachers' colleges $10,000.

State printing is done in private printing and publishing shops, with contracts let to the lowest bidder in each class. At present six contractors are handling 12 classifications. The legislature sets the maximum allowable charge in each classification, and bids range from 11 per cent to 36 per cent below those ranges.

Contracts for paper and engravings are let to the lowest bidders without legal restrictions. The state's present engraving contract calls for a discount 68 per cent below the scale price.

Economy Move Fails: Recent efforts to integrate state publishing enterprises and to reduce costs have had little result.

Former Governor LaFollette three years ago ordered all department heads to cut their printing costs by mimeographing departmental reports whenever possible. In many instances, however, it was shown that mimeographing was more costly than printing, although the costs are not shown in the state printing department accounts. All mimeographing orders are handled through the bureau of purchases, while printing orders go through the printing board. LaFollette also set up a central publicity office, called the division of information, which was intended to economize in state publicity services by integrating department activities in that direction.

A few months later, however, LaFollette left office in favor of Julius Heil and the new incumbent in the executive office abolished the information bureau.

Interesting Fact About Appleton

Appleton claims credit for establishing one of the first telephone exchanges in the United States. The first exchange was opened here in April, 1879. For several years prior to that date, the telephone had been in use here on private lines.

In 1877, a telephone was strung from what was then the Benoit and Bleser drug store on E. College avenue to Dr. J. T. Reeve's office and to the residence of Louis Benoit and Dr. A. H. Levings.

Miss Kate E. Hoolihan was the first operator in the first exchange and became manager after the death of Mr. Benoit. In 1883, the exchange was moved from the drug store to larger quarters on the second floor of the same building. In July, 1912, the exchange was moved from rooms over the present Ford Hopkins drug store to the new building at W. Washington and N. Superior streets, now occupied by the Wisconsin Telephone company.

2 Union Locals To Stage Labor Day Celebration

Harrison Coon Is General Chairman;
Parade Is Planned

Kaukauna—Plans for the observance of Labor day are now being formulated by Local No. 147 of the Pulpmakers and Local No. 20 of the Papermakers union. This is the sixth year that these two organizations have been in charge of the Labor day celebration.

Harrison Coon is general chairman of the committee with Loyal Schmalz, vice chairman, Joseph Siebers, secretary, Ed Geske and Ben Verhagen, treasurers, and Gene Wiedenbeck and E. E. Brewster in charge of publicity.

The committee has been meeting every Friday evening at the American Legion hall to perfect plans for the 2-day picnic and celebration to be held at LaFollette park. Any merchant, businessman, or person who has any suggestion regarding the celebration of Labor day is invited to attend the meetings of the central committee.

In addition to the picnic will be the annual parade at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 2. Already over 50 merchants have agreed to submit floats in the parade, and four bands and the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps will also take part.

Parade Marshal
Stanley Lizon has been named parade marshal and he will be assisted by 15 members of the pulp and paper unions. The committee expects that there will be no less than 125 units in the parade.

Featuring the entertainment program will be concerts and dances by the Farm Hands orchestra of station WBY. They will present a 3 1/2 hour concert on Sunday and Monday afternoons and will play for dancing in the evening.

A dance floor, 36 by 50 feet in size, will be erected at LaFollette park and dancing will be open to the public without charge.

Also on the program will be several speakers, one from the state federation of labor, the committee announced.

Other members of the committee are Martin Verkuilen, George Gerrits, Dan Ferguson, Carl Broehmer, Jerry Kain and Herbert Martzahl.

The Kaukauna queen will also meet Mrs. Lillian Gish, star of the play, "Life with Father," in the actress's dressing room at the conclusion of the play.

In addition to these the queen and her court will receive presents of clothes, jewelry, and cosmetics from Kaukauna and Appleton merchants.

The candidates seeking the queenship are, Lorraine Martin, Armella Boucher, Mary Lou Vanevenhoven, Peggy Brandt, Mary Busel, Mary Schatzka, Lynn Angvine, Eunice Kalupa, Josephine McCoster, Kathryn Ann Driessen, Dolores Wenzel, Grace Nagan, Bette McCarty, and Mary Alice Flanagan.

Play Championship Matches In City Tennis Tournaments

Kaukauna—Championship matches in all but one of the tennis tournaments has been completed, Cliff Kemp, city recreational director, announced yesterday. The one match remaining to be played is between Lucile Brown and Jean Derus in the junior girls' tournament, having been postponed because of illness of the latter.

The winners in the various divisions are Clifford Damro, junior boys' tournament; William Tesson, senior men's tournament; and Jane Bolinske in the girls' novice tournament. Marion Hopfensberger won the senior girls' tournament several weeks ago.

Tesson won the championship in the senior men's division when he defeated Robert Parman, 6-2, 6-4, and 7-5. Tesson had defeated Junior Swedberg in the semifinals 6-2 and 6-4 while Parman won from Art Koehne in the semifinals 6-4 and 6-3.

Clifford Damro defeated Frank Gordana in the junior boys' tournament this week by scores of 6-2, 6-3, and 6-4. Damro previously had beaten Ralph Walsh 6-2 and 6-3 and Gordana had defeated Terry McLaughlin 6-2 and 6-4 to enter the finals.

Jane Bolinske was named champion in the girls' novice tennis tournament when she defeated Mary Haas 6-4, 6-3, and 7-5. Miss Damro entered the finals after downing Lois Schubring 6-1, 10-12, and 6-3, and Mary Haas had defeated Joan Leddy 6-1 and 6-0 in the semifinals. In the consolation flight Carol Leigh turned back Jane Dogot 6-4, 7-5, and 11-9.

The girls' novice division is holding a doubles tournament with the following pairings: Jane Bolinske and Mary Hillinger against Carol Leigh and Lois Schubring, and Joan Leddy-Jane Dogot versus JoAnn McCarty-Mary Haas.

Police Issue 75 Traffic Warnings

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna police made four arrests during July, according to the report it submitted to the city council at its meeting Tuesday. These arrests were divided into two for disorderly conduct, one for drunkenness, and one for non-support.

No traffic arrests were made but 75 warnings were issued by the police. A breakdown of these figures shows that 35 warnings were for illegal parking, 11 for driving through arterial stop signs, eight warnings to have lights tested, 11 for speeding, two for prohibited U-turns, five for reckless driving, two for defective brakes, and one for driving without a driver's license.

The police answered 103 calls, their report states and attended three fires. They also gave 35 drivers tests, stopped 406 cars for driving without headlights being lit, registered 20 bicycles, investigated nine accidents, killed six dogs, na-

Willkie Makes

Another Lusty Swing

Ice cold rage congealed the big city New Dealers when they read that statement from the Republican nominee criticizing concentration of industry in the large cities and declaring that the government, insofar as it is empowered, should spread industries "to the medium sized towns so there can be industry and prosperity all over the country."

Back of this statement and attitude should congregate all the forces of true progressive government. And one may rest assured that the big cities, reeking with racketeering and corruption, will no longer even conceal their yellow fangs as they tear at the Republican nominee.

Several years ago the Post-Crescent printed a number of articles trying to show the people of this community how the concentration of industry in great centers of population with its attendant municipal chiseling and corruption has thrown the economic machinery almost off the track.

If, for instance, a munition plant is put in New York City the wages to its workers must be two or three times what they would be in an ordinary community. Part of this outlandish result is due to labor racketeers but most of it may be laid at the doors of political corruption. The worker in New York must pay a very high rental for his apartment. The apartment owner must charge him that high rental because of high taxes and numerous Tammany dues. The terrific cost of living in the great cities may be traced largely to the tremendous expense of maintaining the Mafia and other criminal and political organizations, with a glittering array of the Hines stamp at the top who must receive their fifty or one hundred thousand a year to live in puffed up elegance.

So rotten has politics become in the great cities that for many years the franchises for street railways have not been renewed, in Chicago they have gone unrenewed for 13 years. No one has yet come forth with a bold enough offer of swag to get them through. The corruptioneers want low rates to befool the voters while they make up deficits through shady transactions either borrowing or shunting large sums onto real estate taxes that never normally belonged there.

Mr. Willkie has a keen, discerning eye. He knows the reasons that give this country cramps. And he sees the New Deal feeding more green apples as a cure for the very colic green apples caused.

Today the people throughout this country are literally paying hundreds of millions of dollars in increased costs as their share for supporting the big cities in all their arrogant infamy. Since every other decent approach to the question has been tried and failed, there remains Mr. Willkie's proposal—let our great cities see that industry must abandon them or they must quit swindling the rest of the country.

Trying to Escape Heaven

Moscow has advised the New York business offices of steamship lines that have plied between Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and this country that all crews on the boats belonging to these countries are to return to their home ports or suffer the terrible consequences to which they are subject under Russian law.

This means that they will be sentenced to death and if they never get within the borders of Russian territory they may be executed wherever they are by agents of the OGPU.

But the Soviet law also provides that the family or nearest relatives of any citizen who leaves the country and refuses to return are held responsible for the crime.

It is said that the punishment upon the relatives is not quite as extreme as upon the principals and that imprisonment for life in some Siberian concentration camp is generally considered ample.

There are certain factors in these cases difficult to reconcile. Thus we notice that the Latvia Legation at Washington was flying the flag at half mast upon being advised of the assassination of their humble little president by Soviet troops. And other legations are giving out stories of Russian brutality in the three little Baltic countries that have been cabled from friends who escaped.

The hard thing to understand is why people object to going to heaven. Does St. Peter standing there serenely at the top of the Golden Stairs have many scuffles trying to get ornery individuals past the boundary? Why do millions resent residence in the Russian heaven and die rather than submit to everlasting glory? Can it be that the heaven is but a pig sty wearing an ostrich plume?

"You're a Hun and Nazi"

The very mention of Colonel Lindbergh's name drives the war party into spasms.

Those who have heard the Colonel over the radio must acknowledge that his mild approach to the European war question seemed reasonable and is supported by experience. The Colonel is apparently of the opinion that one of the greatest blunders ever made by a nation was that of ours in 1917 when we went to war. We might as well have done battle over a debate concerning the advisability of using tweedledee instead of tweedledum.

Every time the Colonel speaks his mind—the upshot of which is that there is no opportunity for America to ever bring peace to Europe—New Dealers lash to the microphone in an angry rush and start belaboring the Colonel whose only offense is that he dares to give his opinion.

Heretofore one United States senator was considered sufficient to abuse the aviator. But this time Senator Lucas of Illinois was rushed to the broadcasting station while Senator Pepper of Florida flew into a rage in the senate. Mr. Lucas was mild even if absurd. Since Col. Lindbergh advocates full arming by America the gentleman from Illinois would like to know why we should arm if there were no danger. We will answer him instead of laughing at him. Intelligent peoples prepare because they cannot be certain about attack. But they do not waste their substance, their blood or their treasure in perfectly useless attempts to bring peace to others.

Let the New Dealers pour out their rancor. It is time the people became accustomed to it. Anyone who opposes war after next November, if Mr. Roosevelt is elected, better become accustomed to being called a Hun. He may get a concentration camp in the bargain.

But Lindbergh will carry on even as did his distinguished father before him. For Congressman Lindbergh was one of the few who voted in 1917 against war, one of the few who would have saved this country from the woes and miseries it secured from that struggle.

"Pittsburgh Phil"

Pleads the Constitution

Harry Strauss, better known as Pittsburgh Phil, and jailed as one of the directors of Murder, Inc. has pleaded the constitution in every phrase and perhaps some sections never even mentioned before.

Strauss says he is queer. He feels bats flying around in his belly and bugs running up his spine. He wants a psychiatrist to examine him with the hope that he will be found too crazy to be put on trial for murder. When the New York court named a board of psychiatrists Pittsburgh Phil flew into a tantrum because he wasn't permitted to name the members of the board. Later when the board found him perfectly sane but living in deadly fear as murderers so often do he concluded that the constitution had been broken.

But, sane or insane, Pittsburgh Phil has refused to shave. As a result it may be difficult for witnesses to identify him because of his long black beard. The accused says it would be a breach of the constitution to make him shave. If so why should not every accused person carry a Klan mask in his pocket and drop it over his head when arrested? If the officers remove the mask to identify him he will plead the conviction invalid under the constitution. If they don't he must go free for failure of identification.

Until an accused person is convicted he usually speaks with deep feeling of the law, its justice, glory and majesty. But if no provision in the books can be found to save him from a merited fate he turns upon the law as a rotten fabric of twisted strands.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

FIRST WORDS

One name falls often from his rosy mouth. He does not know more than a dozen words. The summer wind is blowing from the south; He cannot tell me so, or count the birds.

He sees the butterflies with pale gold wings. And once a humming bird drew near to see This darling little boy, who makes and sings His happiness in wordless harmony.

A hundred times a day he calls the one Who holds his glad hours in her gentle hands, She is his long calm night, his healing sun, The joyful answer to his young demands.

Sometime she will remember, as I do, The sweet insistence of his baby call, And treasure those swift years a lifetime through— When "Ma-ma" was the dearest name of all!

Opinions of Others

THE SEVENTH YEAR

Some idea of the revolutionary nature of the change that has occurred in the budget since the '20s may be gathered from noting that the deficit for the year just ended, at $3,700,000,000 exceeds the total of all federal expenditures of each year between 1921 and 1932. In the seven full fiscal years of the New Deal, beginning

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—The rigorous French censorship has suppressed the information, but former Premier Paul Reynaud will face a sensational charge when he is tried before the special war guilt court.

The scandal is based on what has become known in inner diplomatic circles as "Reynaud's trunk."

Following the French collapse, Reynaud attempted to escape from the country. His plan was to go to Portugal and embark for the United States, where he hoped to be made French Ambassador. He made his dash in two automobiles.

In one he travelled with Countess Helene de Portes, the small, homely, shrill-voiced widow for whom he left his wife several years ago and had French divorce laws changed so he could marry her in 1941. As has been reported, this car went off the road, killing the countess and severely injuring Reynaud.

The other car contained Reynaud's two private secretaries, baggage and the mysterious trunk. This car was seized at the Spanish border. There, search of the trunk disclosed that it contained—

20,000,000 francs in paper money, presumably from French public funds.
A large quantity of gold.
A large quantity of jewels belonging to the countess.

Numerous confidential state documents, among them secret French plans for the destruction of Rumanian oil wells to prevent their falling into Nazi hands.

Confronted with this evidence in the hospital, Reynaud vehemently denied knowing anything about the contents of the trunk. He asserted that if the money, jewels and documents were taken, it was without his knowledge and approval. He placed the blame on the two secretaries.

Note—The Pétain government, acting under Nazi orders, has not revealed the fact that Berlin has billed the French for a large sum to cover the cost of the German occupation. This will give Berlin the basis for a claim on French gold and dollar credits in the U. S., which the treasury took under control immediately after the French surrender.

GENERAL PERSHING
General Pershing's solemn warning that unless aid is given the British fleet to resist Hitler, the United States faces certain attack, was not a reply to the appeasement broadcast of Colonel Lindbergh. When the A.E.F. commander decided, after a study of confidential military reports, to come out of retirement and speak to the nation, he did not know that the flyer also planned to talk.

Also, Pershing wrote his speech without any knowledge of what Lindbergh would say. However, Pershing did tune in on the latter's broadcast. But it was only for a few minutes.

The general of the armies became so incensed at Lindbergh's views that he turned off the radio and snapped, "That's outrageous. I'm saying nothing about that young man in my talk tonight, but I shall make it my business to do so on another occasion."

Note—Pershing has made only a few broadcasts, and when Miss Ann Gillis, chief Columbia Broadcasting press director, explained that the signal to begin speaking was a finger pointed at him, he laughingly inquired: "What's the signal to stop? That may be necessary, as I may start reading my speech all over again."

BRITISH EMBASSY
Not for a generation has there been such a lively and effective staff at the British embassy in Washington. Things have changed from the days of Sir Ronald Lindsay, when everything had to be "propaganda."

Lord Lothian started the change, but it has been broadened by the recent arrival of a corps of forthright young Britishers who are not career diplomats but recruits for war work. Today the embassy has no time for the cookie-pusher.

Here are some of the men who have brought new blood to the Georgian mansion on Massachusetts Avenue:

John G. Foster, first secretary, successful young barrister who left a highly lucrative practice in London to serve in Washington.

Michael H. Huxley, first secretary, in charge of press relations; cousin of famed scientist Julian Huxley and famed novelist Aldous Huxley.

A. D. Maris, first secretary, formerly attached to the Ministry of Economic Warfare.

Redvers Opie, second secretary, former Don of Economics at Magdalen College, Oxford, and lecturer at Harvard; his American wife is daughter of Harvard's economist Frank W. Taussig.

Richard F. Heathcoat Amory, third secretary, successful young stockbroker, who spends most of his time with Americans in Washington. He represents the Ministry of Economic Warfare.

P. C. Hill, third secretary, who married a Miss Borden of Chicago, and also represents the Ministry of Economic Warfare.

William Gray Elmisle, attaché, longtime resident of Colorado, whose late wife was a Pulitzer.

ALIEN EMPLOYEES
Chief job of the Census Bureau is to tabulate the population of the United States. But in these days of national defense, it is also acting as a clearing house regarding aliens, citizenship and other kindred questions.

Since the enactment of the various alien registration and anti-fifth column laws, Census officials have been receiving on an average of 6,000 inquiries a week from individuals seeking to establish their American citizenship, and from employers anxious to find out if they have any undesirable aliens on their rolls.

Some concerns have sent their entire payrolls to the Bureau for checking.

Most of the birth and citizenship queries are coming from airplane factories and other plants directly connected with defense production where aliens are now forbidden employment.

Census officials estimate that there are several million persons in the country whose birth records have never been filed with local authorities. To establish the citizenship of individuals of this group the bureau uses old census reports obtained from parents.

(Copyright, 1940, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

With 1934, expenditures have aggregated $36,660,000,000, or an average of approximately $8,100,000,000 a year, while income has totaled about $34,100,000,000, or $4,850,000,000 annually. Thus, in this seven-year period the New Deal has spent upward of $22,500,000,000 more than it received in revenues.

There are some who contend that for a country the size of the United States the present debt of around $42,000,000,000 is not "excessive." Unfortunately, the size of the debt is not, in the final analysis, the test of financial soundness of a government. The test is whether the government has its budget under control. And it must be clear to even the most friendly critic of the New Deal administration that this nation's budget is completely out of control, and that it has been now for at least five years.—New York Herald Tribune.

The Appleton Post-Crescent cordially invites its readers to use this column for an expression of their views on matters of public interest. Contributors are subject only to the restriction that there shall be no libel and that the length of the articles be within reasonable bounds. Contributions must be signed, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith. The Post-Crescent invites the public to make extensive use of this column.

Editor Post-Crescent: As a resident of this town, I'd like to get a few things off my chest concerning the high-handed manner in which the city fathers of our fair city foisted on an unsuspecting public something that is neither "Flesh nor fowl," and if ever an object was a hybrid, that's the Hunter Swimming Pool. Did I say "swimming pool"? Sorry. It's rather on the order of a glorified wading pool.

But the method by which it was selected: Ah, there you got something. I've seen quite a few instances in this town when the head man wanted something and got it, but I've never before seen it worked so smoothly and beautifully. I take my hat off to a masterpiece of maneuvering. Boy oh boy, but I'll bet Hunter is happy over the whole thing. So are the city fathers. So is the head man. So is everybody, including you until you look around and see what's been dumped in your lap for you to pay for. Sometimes I think Barnum's estimate was too low. For why should people concern themselves with what is paid out and balance it against what they get for their money? Taxpayers just don't do that. It isn't orthodox. They just foot the bills.

However, let's get back to the swimming pool. We, the City of Appleton, (you get that, don't you? pleasant little fiction and does no harm); I repeat, we the city are to be permitted to pay to an out of state firm at least $9,103, in royalties, engineering fees, conferences, flower pots, and what nots, in return for which said firm is going to design and construct a swimming pool for our own exclusive use. Said pool to cost in the neighborhood of $48,700 or better. And it will be more, make no mistake about that. By the time our head man gets through deciding what extras we, the city, should have to go along with that wading pool, the cost will be so close to 50 grand that it won't even be funny. Stopped being funny a while ago anyway. And to top it all off, just as one of the aldermen said, we'll finish up by building another pool in a couple of years. Only this one will be a swimming pool.

But what gripes me is that fee. Think of it. A nine thousand out of a fifty thousand dollar job. Honey of a profit if you ask me. Lot of architectural firms in town could have used a fee like that, 17 percent or thereabouts. Of course the local firms only asked 6 percent, the standard fee. The suckers. Only ask that much. And of course the fact that they employ local people, maintain their offices here, pay their taxes here, and in general contribute to the welfare of the community, didn't do their chances any good.

Nine thousand dollars! I can't get that out of my mind. Of course! There's two thousand of that for flower pots; 20 of them. And don't forget the light standard, $1500.00 for that. Only cost around $3500 to flood Spencer Field with light. And there sundry other items. What the heck does Hunter do to their equipment? Plate the stuff with gold? They must.

So what's the answer? I don't know. As I said at the start, I wanted to get it off my chest, and when I went to go swimming, I'll take my family and go over to Neenah where they at least got a real pool and not an imitation like the one proposed for this town.

Interested Citizen.

TO A KINDLY TRUCK DRIVER

Editor, Post-Crescent—How many times have we drivers of private cars yelled about those big road-hogging monsters and their hard-boiled drivers?

Here is a word of thanks to one noble knight of the highway who pushed me up hill (I coasted down) two miles to Clintonville today. Monday, when may I feel broke. Then when I stopped in front of a service station he sounded his horn and drove on.

He stopped and offered his help, and when I asked him what he would charge, the answer was "about half-a-million." I haven't so much money, so here's half a million thanks.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Well, I see where the new French government has come out against alcohol, too, following the agitation in Nazi Germany against even beer. If Germany gets prohibition out of this war it will serve her right, but most folks had hoped France would be spared this form of punishment.

Action to "repress alcoholism" is announced at Vichy, even to the point of forbidding the French peasant his traditional right to make liquor for his own use in his own home. If we ever see the day when Germans can't get any beer and Frenchmen can't get any wine or cognac, it would do more to discredit war than anything else.

It would be a curious thing if the ultimate victor in Europe was the bootlegging industry, and if all it got out of the worst war in history was beer gardens two flights up over garages, and French cafes "one flight down and ask for Tony."

I've got another idea for ending the war and removing the threat to America, without conscription. Just do all we can to get France and Germany to adopt prohibition, and then send over the recipe for the bathtub gin we used to have, to drink here. That'll finish 'em as threats to anybody.

"Thank God for the German Army, Monsieur!"

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—In the opinion of those who have studied the Progressives' chances this year carefully and analytically, Phil Nelson is the leading contender for the Progressive nomination to oppose Governor Julius P. Heil, notwithstanding that Loomis has the backing of the FLPP, that Stafford is supported by many of the regulars, and that Alfonsi is making a herculean effort.

Nelson is fond of telling a story he once heard from Floyd Olson, late governor of Minnesota. Someone asked Olson during an election how he was progressing. "I'm winning by 10,000 Olsons," the former leader of the Farmer-Labor forces in the neighbor state replied.

That anecdote tells something of Nelson's analysis of his chances. Nelson has an appealing name for the thousands of voters of Scandinavian descent who frequently control Progressive nominations. And he has made that name known during several recent sessions of the legislature, and particularly during the 1939 term when Nelson was synonymous with bitter and fighting opposition to the Heil program.

Progressives have long proceeded on the assumption that a Scandinavian name or two on their ticket is sound politics. In the 1938 primary, for example, another man named Nelson—relatively obscure George Nelson of Milltown—ran away with the nomination for lieutenant governor.

But there is a more recent illustration to encourage the northern Wisconsin veteran.

When the Dewey campaign hit Wisconsin last spring and Wisconsin boosters decided to enter a slate of Dewey-pledged delegates in the spring election, they picked a hitherto unknown young man from Superior as one of the candidates.

It was the first important fling in politics for Ralph Nelson, a clerk in a Superior clothing store, but the election returns showed him leading all the other Dewey candidates except one, by a handsome margin. Only man who beat him was veteran Fred R. Zimmerman, who has done more campaigning for votes over the highways and byways of Wisconsin than any other man now living.

From the standpoint of political interest and showmanship, the Progressives might well prefer that Nelson be the nominee, although the real leaders of the party would never pick him if they could control the picking.

Nelson is the only man in the list of Progressive aspirants who can match Heil in showmanship on the stump. In rough and tumble campaigning he is the peer of the list. Alfonsi, a deadly serious young man, talks budgets and finances. Stafford, a newcomer, is handicapped by lack of first hand experience and knowledge of state affairs. Gunderson is stodgy and dull. Loomis is recognized as one of the poorest public speakers among the top list of Progressive leaders.

You don't hear much about Nelson's speeches in this campaign, but that isn't to say that he isn't busy. He drove 10,000 miles in his campaign during June, and there is no sign of a let-up. He is carrying his campaign directly to the people he knows best, the dairy farmers on the rural routes.

Once recently a reporter asked him why he wasn't wearing a white suit, such as affected by other candidates and political leaders. "You can't use a white suit in the barnyard," he rejoined.

Pension Checks

Waupaca—County clerk L. J. Steiger reported $18,650.50 in checks sent out the first of this month for 845 cases of old age assistance. For the 184 cases of dependent children, checks were mailed totaling $6,020.70 and for the 14 blind, $312.

Personal Health Talks

NO MORE CHILDREN

A woman aged 35 years underwent operation four years ago for removal of tumor from "around the uterus, with no incision," as she describes it. She was married nineteen years ago, has three children ranging in age from nine to fourteen years.

After the operation she found they had made a large incision. The doctor said it was necessary to remove the tumor. The doctor informed her husband that there would be no more children, as it had been necessary to remove both ovaries, which were involved in the tumor.

She and her husband have always gotten along happily and never minded being poor in worldly goods as long as they had each other and their three fine children.

Now she confides in me, she says, because I'm a doctor and do not know her as her own doctor does. All right, but if the woman only knew it there is no one in whom it is safer or easier to confide than her own doctor at home.

I'll wager that nine out of ten readers who have ever done any confiding will testify that this is so.

The reader says her present problem is that she feels so serious about everything and she worries so much, her husband tells her she never smiles any more, and she can't confide in him.

Reading between the lines I deduce that there is nothing in particular for the girl to confide in her husband, and if there were that he must be a pretty good scout to confide in.

The reader asks whether the doctors had a right to remove the ovaries without consent of her and her husband. As to that, I am no authority. But I should think that consent was implied when husband and wife accepted the treatment offered. It goes without saying that the doctors would have left at least one ovary or even a portion of one ovary intact if that had seemed safe to do.

In any operation on the pelvic organs of a woman, for tumor, abscess or pus formation or acute or chronic inflammation, removal of part or all of one ovary or two is a contingent which must be left to the judgment of the doctor in every case—and a doctor is always reluctant to interfere with organs or tissues unless it is obvious they are already damaged beyond recovery by the disease process under treatment.

Again, reading between the lines, I wish to reassure this woman, and thousands of others in like circumstance, that while complete destruction by disease of both ovaries or complete removal of both ovaries sterilizes, that is, makes it impossible for the woman to conceive, the loss of the ovaries has nothing to do with the woman's capacity to continue her married life as happily as ever. If this is what worries the woman, she should toss the idea into the ash can and assume smiling right where she left off.

Meanwhile I suggest that she should be sure to take an iodine tablet—I'll send instruction to anyone who asks for them and incloses stamped envelopes bearing his address.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Celluloid for Ivy Poisoning
Dr. Samuel B. Woodward, Worcester, communicates to the J. A. M. A. his experience with celluloid in treatment of ivy poisoning. He painted both arms to the elbows with celluloid, and got immediate relief. He has seen the treatment give the same immediate relief in many other cases.

Potassium Chloride
Have used potassium chloride (soluble) as you suggested, with excellent results for allergic condition. Wish you had specified how long one should continue using it. (F. W. S.)

Answer—Not long—a few doses, for a few days, should be sufficient. It is not a cure, only a kind of emergency palliative, akin to adrenalin in effect. For detailed instructions send stamped envelope bearing your address—ask for monograph "Relief for Allergy."

Saltcramping
I have been taking the Iodin Ration, but a trained nurse tells me that Iodin should not be used in any way after it is ten days old.

(Mrs. L.)
Ans.—Why doesn't somebody tell me these things? Here I've been taking a nip out of the Iodin bottle for years without a refill. Well, go on with the story—did Sairey sell you finally?

Going out west in a few weeks, and before I go I am to have injections against typhoid. What can I do to lessen the reactions to the injections? (D. P. D.)

Answer—Don't give it another thought. You can't do better than that. In most instances the immunizing injections produce only mild malaise of a day or so after the first of the three injections—administered usually at intervals of one week. Remember, the immunity one gains from such prophylaxis does not begin to develop until at least a week after the third injection, so it is better to have the injections two or three months before the time when you may need immunity to protect you.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Aug. 7, 1930
Frank Hawks, Los Angeles aviator, that day held the record for the quickest east-west crossing of the United States. Flying at an average speed of 170 miles an hour, Hawks made the flight in 11 hours, 50 minutes and 43 seconds. It was the first time a transcontinental flight had been made in full daylight.

Frank Shields, youthful New York star, sprang a sensational upset that day by defeating Big Bill Tilden in the Meadow club invitational tournament.

Miss Margaret Engler, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Engler, 315 E. South River street, was to leave the middle of the month for Europe where she was to spend a year studying music in Leipzig, Germany.

Johnson Sees Grim Portent In Attack on Col. Lindbergh

Editor's note: The daily column by General Hugh S. Johnson is being substituted for Raymond Clapper's column while Mr. Clapper is on vacation.

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York—You can get a sample taste of what "can happen here" from Monday's debate in the senate blasting Charles Lindbergh's speech against the massive current New Deal attempt to stumble, fumble or blunder this country into war.

Three New Deal senators, than whom there are none whicker, danced around the torture stake: Minton, Pepper and—with deep blushes for my own home state of Oklahoma—that ineffable ex-teacher of elocution and deserte, Josh Lee.

Sherman Minton knows better. I imagine him with his tongue in his cheek having a swell time making the animals squirm. But Senators Pepper and Lee just have no more sense. They are hot-eyed fanatics for the perfectly preposterous and the patently absurd wherever they can find them.

Senator Pepper is old Doc Townsend's god-child. He honestly wants to give $200 a month to everybody over 60, regardless of what that would do to everybody under 60 and the country in general. Josh Lee wants to make everybody who has so much as a peanut stand put it in hock to buy government bonds.

These gentlemen offered to disembowel Lindbergh for saying that if we are going to do business at all after this war is over, we will have to do with both victor and vanquished, even if the victor is Germany, that we shall have to reconcile ourselves to this idea and that it would be wise to try to intercede to stop this war before it destroys any more of civilization.

For that Senator Pepper screamed "fifth column"; Senators Lee and Minton chipped in with dirty cracks about Lindbergh's courage, loyalty and Americanism. I get a picture of three of the breed of Mexican hairless snapping at a St. Bernard.

Some journals imply that Lindbergh's speech had been ghost-written by nazis and contrasted it with General Pershing's urging that we send part of our navy—50 destroyers—into this war by the subterfuge of "selling" them.

Is anybody fool enough to think that we want to live in this world with whoever wins the war or that we can or should dictate to other countries their form of government? I disagree with part of what Lindbergh said, but the man who denies his right to say it as being un-American convicts himself thereby of an un-American state of mind out-Hitlering Hitler. It is a preview of what to expect from such hands.

Pershing is Anything
By Naval Strategist

There are about four living men in my gallery of living demigods, and one of them is General Pershing—comrade in arms, old commander, personal friend since I was a shave-tail. But nobody can tell me that general wrote that speech. It smells to me of Bill White.

Black Jack at 80 is still one of the world's great soldiers, but he knows as little naval strategy as I. George Eliot unconsciously "obsoleted" his text at the moment of its utterance. However, it may later be dragged by the apostate Knox. I happen to know that the navy doesn't agree with General Pershing.

There is a portent and an omen in this concerted New Deal attack on an American hero—even down to Senator Scott Lucas' command radio appearance castigating Lindbergh, arranged before the colonel spoke.

Do you want to know whether we are going to be pushed into this war? Watch Wendell Willkie! If his progress continues toward the November victory now apparently in sight, we will be in it before the end of September.

I don't accuse the president of meditating any such poison. I accuse him of few of the recent terrible, obvious and undeniable hypocrisies and betrayals. But I think he has abdicated intellectually to an infinitesimally small adulating group of unselected totalitarian associates who would stop at nothing to perpetuate not him, not any principle except the nazi principle of personalized power, not anything—but themselves.

Neenah Council Attempts to End Shore Dispute

Orders Obstructions Removed From Land Between Road, Lake

Neenah—Owners of property abutting Lakeshore drive were given 30 days to remove all obstructions from the land between the paved road and the shore of Lake Winnebago by the Neenah council Wednesday night as the aldermen attempted to reach a solution of the problem which has bobbed up recurrently during the last 10 years or more.

The measure was introduced by Carl Loehning, fifth ward alderman, who said that ovens, pump houses and other things have been built on the property although technically the street runs from the present paved road to the lake.

Alderman Walter Buschey said that he had been ordered off the land by the owner of abutting property. "Why go?" queried Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs. Richard O'Brien said, "I might go now but 15 or 20 years ago I think I'd have pinned anyone's ears back if they tried to order me off."

Buschey suggested that an ordinance limiting parking on the point might reduce complaints from property owners. He suggested 11 or 12 o'clock instead of 2 and 3 o'clock accompanied by radio music and hollering. The matter was referred to the committee on ordinance and printing and the city attorney. The city will improve the terrace along the drive on motion of Alderman Andrew Andersen by filling in black dirt and seeding it.

Letter Is Read
A letter from A. C. Gilbert regarding the drive was read. The letter stated that the area was platted in 1873 with Lakeshore drive as a public street which now has been in continuous public use for almost 70 years although all of the street has not been used for traffic. He pointed out that citizens along the drive have helped preserve the natural beauty of the spot and have enhanced its beauty through landscaping of their own property.

The city has no right to use the street for parking purposes, according to the Gilbert letter. He declared that no one is talking of abandoning the street and denied that owners of abutting property want to steal the drive. He pointed out that those property owners have contributed much to the financial and industrial development of Neenah.

The aldermen, however, said that not all property owners take the attitude of Mr. Gilbert while Andersen stated that some property owners absolutely claim to own the land between the road and the lake.

A letter also was read from attorneys of Mrs. Helen K. Stewart asking that action be taken to protect the interests of the taxpayers in the property for all time. The letter pointed out that changes have taken place since Mrs. Stewart brought the case to the supreme court in 1934.

Since then owners of abutting property have asked citizens to get off the terrace, have installed water connections and pumps, have built ovens, have constructed boat slips, and have made the city secure permission to fill in the breakwater. The attorneys argued that those acts constituted claims of ownership and said that the city should assert its rights.

Earl E. Thompson, president, and Harry Korotew were reappointed to the library board by Mayor Kalfahs. Their terms will expire in 1943. Bills amounting to $16,218.77 in 179 accounts were allowed. The largest items included $1,295 for a department truck, $1,509 for poor relief, $1,860.71 for sand, gravel, and cement, $1,152.67 for workmen's compensation insurance, and $1,245.26 to the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company for lights.

Buildings at the fresh air camp were sold to the highest bidders. Richard Lang offered $25 for the kitchen and Dwight Plucker $50 for the larger building. Antonio Brezinski has been sworn in as a county deputy sheriff and will police the grounds.

Mayor Kalfahs declared that he has received a number of complaints because of foot conditions, particularly because of the Neenah Milk Products factory, which is in the second ward. Robert Martens, second ward alderman, declared that he had received no complaints and the mayor said, "Frankly, I was told 'No use going to Martens. He doesn't do anything.'" Andrew Andersen, the other second ward alderman, said that he has received complaints also.

Carl Loehning suggested that the

The Twin Cities office of the Appleton Post-Crescent for its editorial, circulation and display advertising departments is located at 510 N. Commercial street, and the telephone number is 4100. News items, copy or orders for display advertising and orders for subscriptions may be left at the office or telephoned. Orders for classified advertising should be placed by telephoning 543 in Appleton, and the cost of the telephone call will be rebated. The Twin Cities office closes at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Merchants to Play Kimberly

Neenah Nine Will Attempt to Climb Out of Loop Cellar

Neenah—Neenah Merchants will travel to Kimberly Sunday for a Fox Valley league contest. The Merchants still are at the bottom of the league standings with one victory and three defeats although Kaukauna is in a tie for the bottom position. The Merchant record for the second half is better than the first round in which no games were won although several of the defeats were by one run.

Kimberly, champions of the league last year, has had a rocky time through both the first and second halves of the league season. The Kimberly record is two victories and two defeats during the second half.

The Merchant game with Manitowish last week was postponed because of wet grounds and will be played at Washington park Aug. 18. The Merchants also have a game to play with the Appleton Gettlemen Brew team which was postponed at the opening of the second round.

Wahlers probably will be on the mound for Neenah although almost every possible combination has been used by Manager William Handler in search of victory. The only Merchant win this year was over Kaukauna by a 15 to 8 score.

Marriage Licenses

Application for marriage licenses has been made at the office of A. E. Hedke, Winnebago county clerk, by Leslie W. Helgeson, route 2, Neenah, and Hazel E. Michelson, route 1, Larsen; Louis E. Demeny, 232 Broad street, Menasha, and Rose K. Phillips, route 2, Neenah.

aldermen call on the officials of the new company controlling the plant and order the nuisance stopped. If it is not, Loehning suggested that the firm be pulled into court at every offense.

Wants Grade Data
John Heigl asked whether a grade could be established for homes fixing the basement level above the sidewalk grade. He said that variations in grade have made Fairview street unsightly. J. W. O'Leary, city attorney, questioned whether the city could establish such a regulation on private property but will investigate.

The council ordered a hearing at the next session on a permit to remodel the Scott house at the intersection of Bond street and Forest avenue, into a 3-apartment building. Charles Tensendorf, city sealer of weights and measures, reported that he sealed 107 scales, adjusted 12 and condemned one.

A request of Company I, Wisconsin National Guard, for $225 for its mess fund was turned down. Courtney plant, adjoining the Neenah city limits in the Fourth ward, was presented for consideration by the council.

Individual Liberty Is Basis Of U. S. Success, Kiwanis Told

Neenah—Individual liberty and freedom are the basis of the success of the United States, Guy M. Bingham, business specialist, Washington, D. C., declared in a talk Wednesday noon to members of the Neenah Kiwanis club.

Four problems face this country, the speaker said. The biological problem has been created because the upper classes have small families while the lower groups, who are more likely to become the tools of agitators and political bosses, have large families.

Political indifference is another problem facing this country. The last census estimated 73 million eligible voters but in 1928 only 37 million cast their ballots. In 1932 about 45 million voted, and in 1936 about 45 million voted. In the economic field communists must learn to balance their budgets. Bingham advocated the city manager form of government.

Crime Cost High
Crime is the chief social problem of this country, mainly because the criminal figures he has a good chance of not being caught and even if caught, he has a good chance of getting off or of getting an early parole. Crime annually costs this country $15,000,000.

In one year London had 16 murders and 42 robberies while New

O'Konsky Tells Of 5th Column

Twin City Rotarians Hear Discussion of Communistic Activities

Menasha—A. E. O'Konsky, public relations counsel, Madison, discussed fifth column activities in the United States at a joint meeting of the Menasha and Neenah Rotary clubs at Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon. The speaker declared that sources of subversive activities in this country are communism, nazism, and fascism, which he defined as a more moderate form of nazism.

O'Konsky addressed the Menasha Rotary club on communist activities about a month ago and repeated some of previous material and confined most of his remarks to communism.

The speaker declared that the communists have taken advantage of many of the federal relief projects although those projects originally started as bona fide relief efforts. O'Konsky cited a federal guide book project which listed mines, government fortresses, and utilities on which 4,500 persons were employed and for which the chief qualification was a communist party membership card rather than actual need for assistance.

Similar qualifications were cited as requirements for the federal writers project of which Harry Alsberg was in charge and the federal theater project which was directed by Halilee Flanagan. The projects were communist dominated and controlled, O'Konsky charged.

Get Good Jobs
The power of the communists is indicated by their ability to get into places of high authority. As an example the speaker declared that the party placed a man at the head of Commonwealth college in Arkansas but later managed to have him transferred to a government job at $4,800 a year in Washington.

"Don't underestimate the possible dangers of communism," O'Konsky warned.

O'Konsky is a state teachers college graduate and has had graduate work at the University of Wisconsin and University of Iowa. He was superintendent of schools at Pulaski and later served as professor of speech at Minnesota Junior college, Oregon State, and the University of Detroit.

Council Considers Remedies For Neenah Traffic Problem

Neenah—The Neenah council considered means of remedying the traffic problem on Commercial street at a regular session Wednesday night. A representative of a Syracuse, N. Y., firm recommended a system of lights with manual control and four-way wall signal.

The recommended change would put four new two-way signals at the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Commercial streets with four lights, red, amber, and green for automobile traffic and a four-way walk sign for pedestrian traffic.

Two of the present signals would be moved to the intersection of Commercial street and Canal street. Most of the vehicle difficulty is that east-bound traffic on Canal street is tied up by south-bound traffic on Commercial street. A stop and go light, which will correlate with the Wisconsin avenue ones through a manually operated switch will be placed at the northwest corner of the Canal street intersection and an amber flashing beacon at the southeast corner.

Cost of equipment would be $691.90 with installation extra. The council adjourned to hear further discussion of ways of handling the Commercial street traffic and probably will take action at the next regular session.

One suggestion for alleviation of the traffic problem was blocked when the North Western railroad refused permission for construction of a supplementary bridge adjoining the railroad bridge across the Fox river for bicycle and pedestrian traffic. The railroad refused permission because it would have to assume liability in case of accident. Pedestrians who use the railroad bridge now do so at their own risk.

"A Good Thing"
John Heigl pointed out that it might be a good thing for the city to have the request refused. He said that it might speed up the time when Neenah will get a second major bridge. City Clerk Harry Zern-

The street committee was authorized to put gravel on E Race street where the retaining wall was built along the canal. An ordinance will be drawn to limit parking on the street. Bids Rejected
The council rejected all bids for an air compressor because the street committee advised that a large compressor be purchased than the three-quarter horse size advertised for. Electric wiring at the city garage has been overloaded and the committee will put in a power line and advertise for bids on the rewiring.

Fencing around the playground on the flats near Theda Clark hospital was authorized. Alderman Buschey asked improvement of the sharp corner at the intersection of Bond and Clybourn streets. The utilities committee advised removal of several light poles. The fire department was authorized to send a delegate to the state convention at Ashland.

The council rejected a counter-offer of $1,000 and perpetual care of a cemetery lot for the Buck property in the Third ward. Alderman O'Brien has urged that the property be purchased for a playground. The council offered the owners $850 although three assessors set the value at $750. After rejecting the $1,000 offer the aldermen voted to condemn the property as a health nuisance because of the large number of mosquitoes which breed in standing water there. The city planned to fill the ground in for a playground.

Eagles to Face Own Players in Game at Omro

Menasha Battery to Aid League Leaders in State Tournament

Menasha — Menasha Eagles will oppose some of their own teammates Sunday at Omro in a Winnebago league game. The Eagles are scheduled to play two games tonight against the first-place team in the loop. Omro is entered in the state tournament at Milwaukee and will play the Racine County league entry at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Entries in the state tournament are permitted to bolster their squad with four players from other teams in the league. The Omro manager has asked Gil Grabner, Oshkosh youth who pitches for the Eagles, and Frank Schipferling, catcher, to complete with Omro. In order to get some practice with the Omro team, the two Eagles probably will play a few innings against their own teammates Sunday.

Both games will be no more than seven inning contests while the second one may be cut to five innings. Arthur Gutzmann, secretary of the Menasha Eagles club and a league director, will take the two Menasha players as well as Baier, a pitcher, and Martin, a first baseman, from the Oshkosh Union to bolster the Omro team to the state tournament Monday.

With Schipferling and Grabner working for Omro, the Menasha battery for one game probably will be Pavletski and Zimmer. Ernie Koerner or Clarence Zielsinski probably will pitch in the other game with Zimmer again doing the catching.

While the Eagles will cooperate with Omro as far as the state tournament is concerned, the two teams will battle in the league games Sunday. The Menasha nine will attempt to reach a 500 rating in the league standings and also knock Omro out of first place.

Offer Dominion In War Bargain

India's interest in a British victory has become increasingly keener.

India already is contributing substantially to the British war effort, but the contribution is small compared to her potentialities. Indian soldiers form part of a defense system vital to the Singapore naval base and India also is an important source of supply for the British armies.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the independence-seeking nationalists, declared in a recent plea urging Britain to abandon war for "non-violence" that he did "not want Britain to be defeated, nor do I want her to be victorious in a trial of brute strength."

Realists in India, however, are prepared to go all out to help Britain thwart any German, Italian or Japanese ambitions on the ground that any kind of British rule is preferable to what new conquerors might offer.

Resuming the air pounding of Britain after a brief lull, German planes last night and today attacked various parts of the country. The government said the attacks were by "isolated" craft and that little damage was reported.

Suspect Is Held in Massachusetts Death

Springfield, Mass.—(AP)—Although the medical examiner reported a preliminary examination failed to show any signs of a criminal attack, a sex offender was held for questioning today in connection with the slaying of Miss Rose Lodi, 22, whose mutilated body was found yesterday near a wooded area known as a "hobo jungle."

Meanwhile, police considered the possibility that extreme hatred or jealousy might have been the motive for the slaying.

The partially clad body of the attractive match factory worker—her face and body slashed and a handkerchief stuffed in her mouth—was found yesterday by her father, Angelo Lodi, who conducted a search after she failed to return from work Tuesday.

Reverend to what new conquerors might offer.

Decide on Plan To Pick Workers For Building Job

Towns, Cities, Villages Each to Provide Third Of Common Laborers

Common labor on the new courthouse project will be secured evenly from among cities, villages and towns in Outagamie county, a third coming from each, the building committee decided at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Supervisors will be asked to submit names of persons wanting work and the name, size to be reported to John E. Hantschel, county clerk. The completed list then will be turned over to the contractor.

The building committee took time off yesterday afternoon to watch Senator Mike Mack, chairman of the county board, dig the first shovelful of dirt to officially start the excavation for the new building. Workmen are nearing the finish of razing the county jail on which site the new courthouse will stand.

The committee will inspect courthouse elevators at Oshkosh, Green Bay and Manitowish Aug. 21 and 22. The well near the old jail will be sealed by Louis Faust, Kaukauna, J.

Robertson of the Robertson company, Milwaukee, conferred with the committee regarding the heating system for the new building.

Outlets for time clocks will be set in the offices of the register in probate, clerk of courts, county clerk, register of deeds and assessor of incomes. A change from the generator to dual-motor type clock system was authorized at a saving of about $100 for the county.

BREAKS GROUND FOR NEW COURTHOUSE—Senator Mike Mack, chairman of the county board, broke ground for Outagamie county's new $525,000 courthouse yesterday afternoon with members of the building committee giving him moral support. Senator Mack, who suffered a broken neck earlier this summer, still is wearing a neck brace, but he said he wouldn't permit it "to interfere with his duties." Hegner, Appleton; Supervisor Mike Jacobs, Appleton; Sheriff John Lappen, barely visible behind Jacobs; Senator Mack; Supervisor Lloyd Long, Kimberly; Supervisor Carl Kreutzman, town of Center; District Attorney Raymond P. ## Water Carnival at Fremont Is Success, Chamber Board Says

Fremont — A special meeting of the Fremont chamber of commerce was held Tuesday evening at the village hall with the president, A. M. Sadre, presiding.

Receipts and expenditures from the thirteenth annual water carnival given in Fremont Saturday and Sunday were audited under the direction of the treasurer, Edwin Sherburne. Receipts included donations from local business men, charges to the visiting carnival and to concession stands and automobile parking charges. The water carnival was voted a success.

Because warm weather of the last two weeks has done a great deal to hasten the grain crops in this vicinity, farmers in the town of Fremont, town of Wolf River and Caledonia are preparing for threshing. Frank Looker, Fremont, started the threshing season Wednesday. Bumper grain crops is indicated in the nearby towns.

John Looker received several torn ligaments and muscles in his back and one leg when he fell while walking down the hill near his home. He will be confined to his home for several weeks.

Broker Succumbs

Chicago — F. C. H. Scott, 43 Chicago investment broker, died yesterday while on a vacation at Lake Geneva, Wis. He was a member of the Indiana university football team in 1913-15, was a member of the University Athletic committee for several years and was a past president of the "I Men's" association.

Natives Return to War-Torn Cities in Northern France

BY PRESTON GROVER

Luxembourg —(P)—More than a month after the end of fighting, the once populous communities of northern France still are ghost towns in a battle-scarred, almost deserted countryside.

In the backwash of blitzkrieg are left unharvested crops. . . A handful of scattered farm families toiling silently, long after dark, to salvage what they can. . . City pavements plowed by stuka bombs. . . the strong smell of ashes from the ruins of shelled towns.

Such were the scenes I saw with a party of foreign correspondents

Chamber Receives Booklet on Drive

A booklet on "Industry's Program for 1940," describing objectives in the Mobilization for Understanding of Private Enterprise, has been received at the Appleton Chamber of Commerce office.

The booklet was accompanied by a letter from George O. Fowler of New York city, regional coordinator for Wisconsin in the campaign to acquaint the nation with the philosophy, foundation, and aims of private industry.

The resolutions committee of both the Democratic and Republican parties received copies of the booklet at the recent national conventions. Three major problems, defense, "maintenance of basic personal liberties," and "obtaining of a national economic recovery" face America, it is stated.

The booklet covers in brief such subjects as defense, government, business relations, labor situation, government finance, currency standard, industrial financing, and international trade and tariff.

May Invite Kresge Officer to Appear Before Committee

Washington —(P)—Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said today he would suggest to the senate campaign expenditures committee that it invite C. P. Tuttle, an official of the S. S. Kresge Co., Detroit, Mich., to appear before it in connection with a complaint that some company employees were being coerced to contribute to a campaign fund for Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee.

Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) asked the committee this week to investigate the circulation among Detroit Kresge employees of a letter signed by Tuttle urging individual gifts to the Willkie campaign fund.

Byrnes charged that this amounted to coercion of employees and urged that if the committee found this to be true, it recommend legislation to prohibit such action.

Tuttle said in Detroit yesterday that the letter, which he said went only to 265 managers and department heads in the company's 80 odd Michigan stores, was "neither a touch or a command." He said the communication merely offered the employees "an opportunity to make a contribution to the Willkie campaign through me if he so desired."

Council Hears NYA Request

Relief Bills Lower; Bartender and Junk Licenses are Granted

Waupaca—Consideration of relief bills, enlargement of the NYA movement in Waupaca, and granting of bartender and junk dealer licenses were included in the Waupaca city council meeting last night.

Relief bills for the month were considerably lower, according to the report submitted. City relief, including medical accounts, totaled $430, and transient relief, also including medical accounts, came to $392.70.

D. Johnson, Green Bay, supervisor of the second district for the NYA movement, asked the council for cooperation in enlarging the project in Waupaca in order better to prepare youth for participation in essential industries. He requested a room where operators could do metal work such as making street signs and other objects in addition to matching NYA funds to further the project. No action was taken by the council.

A report of the license committee recommended the granting of a bartender license to Wade Frederickson and the council voted approval, seven to one.

The council again was divided on the granting of licenses to junk dealers. Petitions objecting to yards of H. Ruvlin and Dave Fomberg, which are located within the residential districts, were presented and the council refused renewals and ordered that both places be closed up before Jan. 1. Ray Bradley, who operates a yard close to the city limits, was granted a license.

"For three years residents of certain streets in the Third ward have been clamoring for sidewalks," asserted Alderman L. D. Seibert, who objected to the amount of labor being put on the new athletic field. He suggested that the more skilled of the people indebted to the city be set to work building sidewalks before the cold weather sets in. His suggestion received favorable comment and will be brought before the council at a later meeting.

Tournament Will Help Revive Barbershop Quartet Harmony

The Barbershop Quartet is on its way back and its going to get a lot of help at the tournament which will be held at Pierce park on the night of either Sept. 4 or 5.

"This pleasant kind of singing and entertainment has received new recognition in recent years and it has even caused the organization of the SPEBSQSA, which is the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, headquarters at Tulsa, Okla.

"The revival of barber shop harmony is more than a mere joke," Sigmund Spaeth says in a recent magazine article. "Unquestionably this homely form of singing is a typical example of American folk music and perhaps the ultimate answer to swing and all the other forms of raucous modernism."

"The average man finds in barber shop harmony a nostalgic substitute for the elaborate distortions of harmony and rhythm that have kept pace with the feverish energy of a desperate world. By such simple self-expression in music, he regains the peace and sanity of a bygone day."

Quartets of Appleton and vicinity have been invited to start rehearsing for the tournament next month. To provide atmosphere, the singers are encouraged to wear striped shirts, mustaches, and bowlers. The public will be invited and a stag party for all participating quartets will follow the tournament.

Waupaca County Fair Will Feature Oldtime Horse Races

Weyauwega — Weyauwega again will be host for the 67th time to the annual Waupaca County Fair on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, August 9-10-11. One of the most varied and entertaining programs ever planned by fair officials will be presented, including harness racing which will be brought back after a lapse of several years, motorcycle races, the WLS barn dance entertainers, activities and exhibits of 4-H clubs, music by the Weyauwega high school band, and many other features.

Much interest is noted in the horse races, lack of which has caused much dissatisfaction during the last few years. Some of the fastest horses in the state, many of which already have won or placed at meets this season, already are entered for the Weyauwega track on Saturday and Sunday.

Among those entered, according to William Rossey, superintendent, are Jay Frisco 2:05½ and Star Lax 2:09½, both from the Carcy stables at Oshkosh; Dusty Bob 2:08½, Jack Martin 2:11, and Ella Doris owned by L. A. Barnhart, Wautoma; Honey O'Brien and Axworthy the Great owned by Paul Zimdars of Weyauwega; Wilfred, owned by Dick Conley of Oshkosh, winner at Merrill last Sunday; Robert A. 2:11½, King Cotton 2:07½, and Jim Fox 2:09½, owned by Irving Lawler of Green Bay; Belle Riggs 2:14½, owned by G. W. Hamilton, Westfield; Hollywood Robert and Jack Harkaway, owned by R. E. Carey of Berlin; Dr. Brooke and Jimmie Dewey, both the property of W. E. Gladys of Mauston.

Cycle Races
The speed program will be augmented by motorcycle races which will be run on the half-mile dirt oval following the harness races Sunday afternoon.

Among the finest exhibits on the grounds will be those entered by the 4-H groups. Future Farmers of America, all high school agricultural boys and home economics girls, throughout the county. A record number of displays will greet fair visitors.

Climax of the Junior Fair, the 4-H clubs, and of the fair crowd itself, will be the crowning of the county dairy queen in front of the grandstand, Saturday evening, by Mayor Pat Spearbraker of Clintonville. Selection of the queen and her court of honor will be made some time Friday, but no announcements will be made until Saturday night. The winner will go to the state fair at Milwaukee.

Other events include the demonstrations by 4-H clubs all day Friday; contests and games for boys and girls Friday afternoon; softball games by 4-H club teams, Saturday; the horse pulling contest at 10:30 Saturday morning; baseball game between Weyauwega and Marion of the Pigeon River league, Sunday afternoon; the grand display of fireworks, Sunday evening; exhibits of farm machinery, automobiles, livestock, farm produce, sewing and handwork.

It Is Said ---

"You had better be on your good behavior, boys, we have a visiting alderman from Port Washington."

Thus did Mayor Goodland open last night's council meeting.

The council, incidentally, engaged in comparatively little debate during the session.

Caldwell Will Direct State Child Survey

Study Proposed to Improve Juvenile Probation Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Director Frank C. Klode of the state department of public welfare said today that Dr. Morris Caldwell, head of the division of corrections, would be in charge of the survey of juvenile delinquency recently ordered by Klode.

The welfare department chief recently disclosed that he intended to propose an interesting and improvement of the juvenile probation program, which the state now considers inadequate as administered by the counties. First step will be a survey in every county in the state of juvenile probation and delinquency, with an intensive study in several counties under Dr. Caldwell's direction.

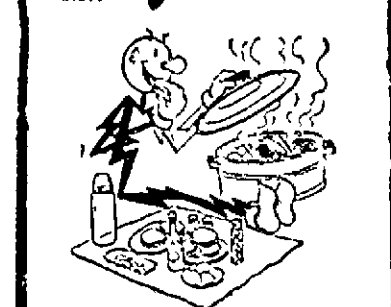

Talking of the need for such a survey, Klode said: "Practically everybody is interested in the problem of juvenile delinquency. Numerous conferences have been held, yet no one knows just how big the problem is."

Common Front
"We intend to find out and when we have that information we will call in interested people with the idea of attacking the problem on a common front."

"From my experience on the parole board, reviewing several thousand cases each year, I am convinced that many of these men and women and boys and girls could have been saved from commitments to institutions had a helping hand been extended to them at the right time, especially during that period of life when habits are being formed."

State records show that 14 Wisconsin counties now have organized juvenile probation services. They include Waukesha, Eau Claire, Douglas, Price, Milwaukee, Dana, Kenosha, LaCrosse, Pierce, Racine, Sheboygan, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, and Jefferson.

Should Have Set Up Side Suit Sooner

BY ELY CULBERTSON

South lost a well bid slam on the hand below and every player at the table commiserated with him on the unfortunate break. In his long suits. But he could have made his contract if he had simply taken the precaution of establishing his side suit before exhausting the trumps.

The hand:

South, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH		EAST
♠ 10 9 8 2	♥ A 6	♠ A 6	♥ 10 7 4 3

♦ K J 7 5	♣ 10 7 4 3	♦ K J 7 5	♣ 10 7 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South had visions of a grand slam, but the four no trump convention quickly convinced him that a small slam was the limit of the combined hands. North's response of five diamonds indicated that an ace was held by the opponents, since North would have bid five no trump with both the ace of diamonds and the ace of spades. South's decision to go to six hearts in spite of the missing ace, however, was perfectly sound in view of North's strong bidding.

West opened the jack of clubs, South winning in his own hand with the ace. He next cashed the ace and king of trumps. When West discarded a club on the second trump, South drew two more rounds of trumps and started the spades. East captured the jack of spades with his ace, and later South could not avoid losing a trick to West's ten of spades.

South should have seen that it was vital to start the spades before exhausting the trumps. There was no danger if the spades broke 3-3, but a ruff was necessary to provide against a 4-2 split. After taking the second trump with the king he should have led the jack of spades. Then he could have trumped a third round of spades with dummy's jack, and later taken the established finesse thru East's ten of hearts.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

The rule that a place at table may never be left plain, except when the table is cleared before dessert, is followed in formal houses only. In other words, the following letter expresses an entirely unnecessary anxiety:

"I usually have the meat carved in the kitchen and passed around by our maid, who then goes back to the kitchen and brings in the vegetables, which are served in a compartment dish to speed up table service and also to save our maid unnecessary steps. In our house our maid is also the cook. But on occasion I like to put a roast on the table and have my husband carve. At such times, after we have finished the first course, the maid removes these plates and brings in the roast and stands that in front of my husband with a stack of hot plates. But this has meant that each place at table was left plateless until the plates with the meat were served. Is there some other way that would be better?" As already noted formal service alone exacts an exchange plate. The answer therefore is: Don't worry.

The Bride's In-Laws

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother is being married in a distant town and my husband and I have been invited to come the day before the wedding and stay with relatives of the bride. We haven't met them, but the bride has written us of the arrangements to stay with them. I am wondering how soon after the wedding we are expected to leave their house.

Answer: You should leave a short time after the bride and groom have gone. This does not mean that you must rush into traveling clothes and dash out of the house! But when the other guests leave, you go and pack and change (if you are going to change), then take leave. That is, if you have come in your own car, you go when you are ready. Otherwise, you will have arranged to take a convenient train or boat.

The Wedding Pictures

Dear Mrs. Post: What can be done if the wedding party finds it necessary to stop on the way home from church at the photographer's to have the wedding pictures taken?

Answer: The photographer should be called in advance and the party should be ready to go when he arrives. The photographer should be called in advance and the party should be ready to go when he arrives.

Tact Is Needed in Making One's Way Into New Group

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—How is a thoroughly respectable, well-educated socially acceptable middle-aged man, who is a stranger in the city to which he has moved for business reasons, to get acquainted with the kind of people with whom he has been in the habit of associating? And, particularly, how can he get to know the kind of women he would like to know? Because of having to take care of aged parents he was not able to marry when he was a youngster. Now he has enough money to take a woman to dinner once or twice a week, and to a few movies, or the theater once in a while. He is not intent on getting married and is not predatory. He has a good job, but does not believe in getting mixed up with the office force after business hours. Pickups do not appeal to him. He would like to meet some woman who is neither grabby nor gabby, who would be an interesting companion. How is he to get in touch with such a one? How about concrete advice—or don't you take on hard ones?

PERPLEXED BACHELOR.

Answer:

Congenial people of the opposite sex are not plentiful anywhere, but the man who wants to find a woman of his own social class and background in a strange city has a cinch compared to the woman who would like to meet some man who would be congenial to her. For he can, at least, go out and seek the woman, while she has to sit on the sidelines and suck her thumb and wait for some man to happen along and notice her.

Also he has the advantage of being able to offer a bonus with himself, so to speak, for he can show the woman a good time by taking her to places of amusement, while she, poor thing, is handicapped by a man having to spend his money on her.

In every big business office there are men of the same culture standard as the stranger who is asking admission to their circle, and all of these men have sisters and cousins and aunts, or their wives have girl friends who lack dates who will eagerly welcome prospective husbands at their dinner tables and parties.

And so I cannot see why it requires anything more than a little enterprise, well-fitting clothes, good manners and the ability to make one's self interesting and agreeable to launch a man on a social career in any city where his fortunes may take him.

With a woman it is different, and the problem of how she can get acquainted with the right people in a strange city is indeed an insoluble mystery, and one that the churches and clubs can only solve for those who are religious-minded or born joiners. Recently a young woman of my acquaintance has been telling me her woes and railing at what she considers the selfishness and injustices of society.

She is a stenographer who got a job in a strange city. Some of her friends gave her a letter of introduction to two prominent people in this city. She promptly presented them, was invited to dinners at their houses and there the matter dropped.

The girl thinks that these women are very unkind because they did not have her continually at their homes and include her in their intimate parties, and practically adopted her as a member of their families. She is also highly incensed that the few girls she met did not introduce her to their boy friends and invite her to go places with them.

Maybe she is right and that this should be an altruistic and unselfish world in which we try to make others happy, but, alas, such is not the case. People have their own friends, their own groups that fill all of their time, and are more than ready to entertain. So it is asking a great deal of them to take in a stranger who has no claim upon them, whom they do not know in any way, and who may not even be congenial.

Moreover, a chop for a chop is the social rule the world over, and it is practically impossible for girls who have no homes, no mothers to entertain for them, no money to buy fine clothes to go the pace and keep up with the rich Joneses.

So it is a pretty pickle however we cut it.

Beauty and You

KEEPS PHYSICALLY FIT—Edith Meiser is a very successful, hard-working career woman, writing radio scripts, short stories and plays. But she persists in keeping physically fit by using her home as a gymnasium. She advises housewives to do likewise.

Women who must spend the major part of each day running their homes complain that they have little free time to join health classes to keep in trim. But that, according to Edith Meiser, is a slim excuse. She knows that housewives can keep in trim right in their own homes.

Edith Meiser is a radio script writer and author—perhaps one of the busiest career women. Five typewriters stand around her workroom at home, each with a manuscript in the making. So she has perhaps less free time than the average housewife, but she does realize the pitfalls of physical inactivity and has consequently devised a number of corrective exercises which she does at home. And they keep her in trim!

Miss Meiser advises housewives to use common chairs, tables or benches as gymnasium aids. For instance, here is a waist slimming exercise which is done by placing your right leg across the seat of a straight chair. Then try to touch your toes with your right hand. Try ten times, then exercise your left side in the same manner. Keep your abdomen in and your knees stiff.

Card Game
When she gets stiff from typing long hours, she scatters a deck of cards about the floor and stoops, by bending her knees, to pick up each one. Up and down she goes until the cards are gathered—52 times you know. That truly limbers one.

Case Records of a Psychologist
By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Here is a common type of case which many people may be shocked to read about, but facts are facts, and you never will be a mature adult by trying to play the proverbial ostrich role. We need more "horse sense" in dealing with human behavior, and less exaggerated prudishness. Lolita is in a bad situation. But she wants a constructive solution. What would you advise? Don't make a snap judgment. Weigh all factors carefully, as would a judge.

CASE R-140: Lolita A. aged 27, is an attractive wife.

"I have one little boy and am expecting another baby," she informed me at once.

"But I am worried sick. I cry and cry and feel so blue, I think I'll go crazy. My doctor knows I'm worrying but I can't tell him."

"Besides, I haven't any parents and no relatives save an 18-year-old sister who lives with us, so please, Dr. Crane, tell me what to do."

"My husband and I have been happily married for 10 years. But six months ago he fell in love with my sister. They make love right in front of me."

"I love him with all my heart and also love my sister. He is also very good to me, and is crazy about our little boy."

"But I think it is wrong for him and my sister to be in love, and feel she ought to move out. But he disagrees and thinks things should go along as they are. Dr. Crane, what on earth can I do?"

DIAGNOSIS:
Time and again I have stated in this column that emotional immaturity is one of the commonest causes of domestic unhappiness.

If this is coupled with sexual maladjustment, then we have a perfect situation for the rapid growth of divorce.

Lolita's husband is obviously acting like a juvenile youngster who wants to have his cake and eat it, too. He isn't showing enough sense of fair play and good sportsmanship to save his wife this worry and conflict even while she is carrying their second child.

He is a law unto himself, which again is typical of grandstanding children. Listen to them on the playground and you'll see them try to make new rules and regulations to suit their own selfish interests. They refuse to play the game according to Hoyle.

Remove The Cause Of Trouble
One of the reasons why this husband has diverted some of his interest to the younger girl, however, has been the fact that his wife has been erroneously advised regarding marital relations.

Some of our medical educators themselves are still rather prudish and old maidish. They carry this personal emotional attitude over to their textbooks on obstetrics.

In the usual marriage where both parties thereto are normally healthy and the wife is not predisposed to miscarriage, there is no important reason for recommending such asceticism.

Indeed, a great many happy marriages are threatened because of this unwarranted advice. At the time when a young wife would like to monopolize her husband's complete attention, she is often the unwitting cause of his thoughts straying elsewhere.

Lolita Is Correct
If the above mentioned barrier were immediately removed, then one of the causative factors in this present trouble would be eliminated.

But Lolita is correct in saying her sister ought to move out. There is no psychological evidence to support her remaining as a further irritating factor in an otherwise happy home.

"Look not on the wine when it is red" is an admirable law of psychology as regards this matter of temptation. Don't sit and argue with yourself regarding an evident temptation. Remove it or remove yourself from the scene. This holds, too, in the field of dieting!

Probably the man most competent to help Lolita's husband see things in the proper light, is the family physician, so I urged Lolita to have a talk with the doctor, and then let him speak to her husband.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Grumpy Children Aren't Popular With Anybody

BY ANGELO PATRI

"What about Curt? Isn't he going along?"
"Grumpy? No. We didn't ask him. He never wants to help and he is forever grunting. He's just a pain so we'll leave him behind. Nobody wants to have him around for three days and two nights straight running."

The counselor saw the group off, and then went to the kitchen and got lunch for two, walked up the trail past Grumpy's tent and, seeing him sitting disconsolately there, shouted, "Hello, why aren't you on the hike?"

"Wasn't asked. Pretty nice. Your tent mates are supposed to be your pals and they dump you like nobody's business. Nice friends I have. Some camp that lets this kind of thing go on. I'm writing home about it tonight."

"Yeah? What about coming along with me? I'm going to the Old Mines to explore. Maybe I can find the ghost that frightens the visitors. Want to come along? I've got lunch for two. We'll stay all day and see what we can see. Maybe we'll have a real adventure. Anyway, it's a grand day. What say?"

"O, I don't know. Can't you get somebody else. I'm going to be busy writing home."

"I wasn't asking anybody. Thought it was a good chance to be out alone and surprise the fellows when they got back. I'll have a story to tell, too. They won't have it all their own way."

"Well, as long as you're all alone, I'll go to keep you company. I suppose it won't be much fun. Got an extra sweater in case I need it."

"I have my own in case I need it. The same to you, old man. And many of them?"

"You'll need your sweater. And good walking shoes, too. Hurry. I don't want to be on the open road at hot noon."

By and by the two started, the counselor carrying the pack, the camper walking behind, his sweater tied about his neck. As they hit the main road Grumpy said, "I hate walking on a hard road."

"We'll soon get off it. Especially if we smarten our step a little."

"I can't walk so fast. I had an operation two years ago."

A Complaint a Minute
"Here we are in the woods. Now we have this fine moss to walk on for about five miles."

"Five miles. Gee. I'm about dead. How far is it now? Gee. I'm thirsty. Can I have a drink out of that spring? Huh, I don't believe it's bad. My ankle cricks. What smells so bad—the woods? Huh, rotten smell. How far is it now? Gee, you told me it was only a little ways. I'm hungry. No, I can't wait so long. I have to eat now or I'll be sick. Sandwiches. I hate cheese. I'll eat another one. Can I have another drink? I always drink a lot. How far is it now?"

Later, when the counselor had his charge safely in camp he said, "Grumpy, you say you don't complain. You don't grunt. If you had to wear a pebble in your shoe for every grunt you made this day you would have been crippled in both feet before you left the trail on the way out. That's why you're left home. Just think it over."

hands into trouser pockets and swaggered, ever so little. The long, narrow drawing room, done in gray and silver, was filled by groups of women in silks, laces, tweeds, furs and jewels. A few men were scattered among them. They all stopped chattering to stare at Lenore's latest arrival, wondering who on earth she could be. Jan felt guilty only the moment she met Derek's mother, a brittle, nervously pretty woman with dyed red hair, whose face looked as if all human expression had been lifted out of it by plastic surgery. But she, or her name, meant nothing to the Countess von Lurwitz, and Lea would have been only annoyed if she were aware that this incredible young person in pants pitted her and pitied her son more.

Lenore thrilled for silence, announced Jan as a clever young artist from Olvera Street, Los Angeles, who would sketch a few portraits to amuse them. Jan, inwardly praying for Derek's arrival, took a few pencils from the pocket of her jeans and sat down to the table and paper Lenore provided. However, as she sketched, her imagination got to operating and her small, pink tongue, literally and figuratively, lodged against her left cheek, and when Lenore sat for her, the pencil simply refused to behave.

The finished sketch resembled Lenore, but not in the way that young woman wished to be resembled.

One of her friends spoke the consensus of opinion. "Darling!" she tutted. "you look like a Siamese cat!"

Gone

Lenore grasped Jan's arm firmly and piloted her into an ivory and lavender bedroom. She closed the door.

"I'll never forgive you for this abuse of my generosity!" she grated. "I only asked you here because of Ricky! He's absurdly determined to repay you for something or other. He feels sorry for you because you're so young and so poor and so obviously and idiotically in love with him. Or is it his money?"

Jan gasped. Never in her life had she so wanted to commit grave bodily harm. Her hand ached to slap that furious, supercilious look off Lenore's face.

"I don't love him!" she snapped, tears of rage fast closing her throat. "And I don't need anybody to be sorry for me! Besides, he's more mine than yours. He's salvaged my salvage—and I could claim him if I wanted to!"

Derek stepped into the room. "They told me I'd find you here, Lennie—" His mouth dropped open. "Jan," he ejaculated in what she imagined to be horror-stricken tones. "Jan, what in heaven's name are you doing in that outfit?"

"I've been slumming!" she shouted.

Lenore ran to Derek. "She's quite mad, Ricky. She says she could claim you as salvage! She says you belong to her."

He scowled terrifyingly. "Oh, she does, eh? Well, I've a few things to tell her!" He started for Jan, who, thoroughly frightened by her own behavior, sprang past him and ran out of the apartment to the elevator.

"Take me down quickly," she ordered the grinning colored operator.

Derek tried to catch her before the door closed, but could not. He whirled and tore madly down eight flights of steps to the lobby. She was gone. Suddenly he threw back his head and roared with laughter. The clerk and the door man stared at him in trepidation as he went out mumbling: "Salvage, eh? I'm hers, all right!"

Nevertheless, it soon became evident she had no intention of claiming him. He could not find her. He took to hanging about the hospital, hoping for sight of her, unaware that she saw him and deliberately avoided him, slipping out another entrance, dodging around corners and through corridors when his pursuit grew too hot. He argued and threatened and stormed at doctors and nurses to no avail. They would not permit Lance any visitors and they would not catch Jan and lock her up for him.

And then one day when he inquired if Lance was well enough to see him he was told that Mr. Merriner and his sister had returned to the coast.

Derek stared blankly at the head nurse.

"It's quite true," the nurse insisted in the firm, reasonable tone one employs on children and hystics. "Doctor Murray went with them, having finished his work here. Mr. Merriner was unhappy, and eager to return home, so Doctor had him moved by stretcher. Their train left early this morning. I believe."

Wanna Shoot a Duck? Chances Should be Much Better This Fall

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington—You can't count your ducks until they're hatched—or in the bag—but shooting prospects definitely are winging higher for the 1940 duck hunter.

Uncle Sam's duck census takers say the migratory waterfowl population has jumped 15 per cent since last year. They figure roughly there are about 65,000,000 on the American continent this year compared with some 57,000,000 in 1939.

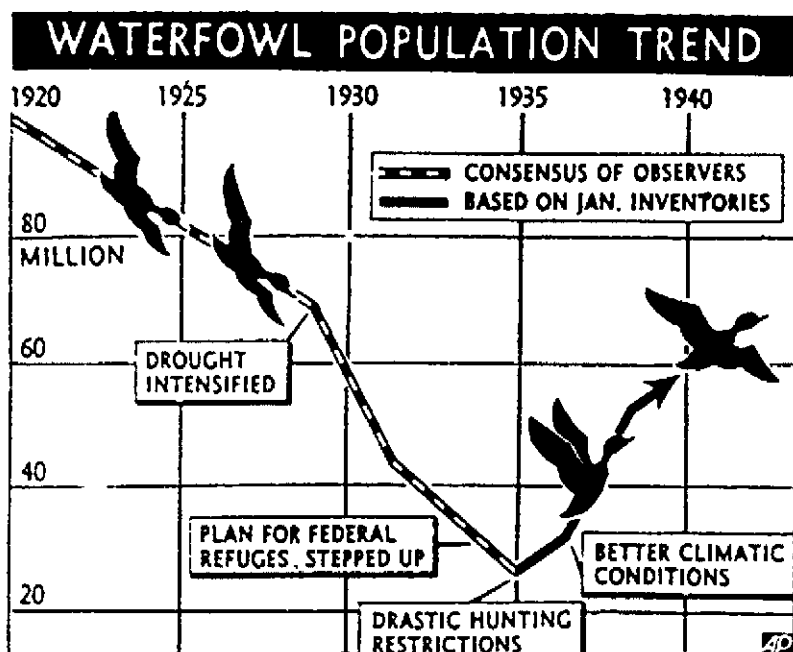

Furthermore, drought in western and northern regions didn't materialize as extensively as was feared in the spring. Water-supply conditions are rated generally good in the breeding grounds.

The number of waterfowl has doubled since a population low of 30 to 32 million was reached in 1935. The duck comeback is attributed to drastic action by the Federal government, with cooperation of the states, to prevent a threatened extinction and to better climatic conditions in the nesting grounds.

Emergency funds were provided by Congress and the sale of duck stamps was inaugurated in 1934 to finance the purchase and maintenance of waterfowl refuges. Simultaneously, the government and states tightened restrictions on duck hunting to curtail the heavy annual slaughter.

Although the hunting season does not open in most regions until October, the 1940 duck stamps are on sale now at postoffices throughout the country. The stamps, which must be purchased by all migratory waterfowl hunters more than 16 years old, cost $1. There is in addition, of course, to state licenses.

The sale of these stamps dropped from 655,000 in 1934 to 448,000 in 1935 but has increased since then to more than 1,000,000 a year. The number of national wildlife refuges has been increased from 102 to 260, more than half of these areas being primarily for migratory waterfowl. The Fish and Wildlife Service (formerly the Biological Survey) reports a marked lack of uniformity in the percentage of duck increase this year in the four major "flyways." As in the past the Atlantic and Mississippi flyways included most of the waterfowl. The Central Flyway showed a large decrease in all waterfowl while the status of birds in the Pacific flyway remained almost at the 1939 level.

This chart, based on figures of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, shows a steady upward trend in duck population since 1935. Experts say the increases are tending to level off but add that an adequate supply can be maintained with proper care.

Here's a brief summary of the comeback status of various species. The mallard and pintail are making the best recovery among the various species of ducks.

Black ducks show a slight decrease, which may be more apparent than real.

Canada geese population is greater than last year but increase is not so large as expected. May reflect excessive slaughter in one or two areas.

Canvasbacks have increased satisfactorily, blue and snow geese have increased considerably and whistling swans have suffered a slight reduction.

Parker, Prusoff, Riggs Winners

Frank Shields Cops; Now Rated as Senior Partner in Laundry

Rye, N. Y.—(AP)—Gil Hunt, the Washington, D. C. figure-filbert who doesn't want to win the national tennis championship until he is 27, has only a rooting interest in the eastern grass court championships today.

Hunt was eliminated short of the quarter-final round yesterday by giant Frank Shields, of New York, who wouldn't mind winning at Forest Hills now that he is 29. Frank, despite his decade on the courts of Wimbledon, Forest Hills, and other way stations, has this year begun to experiment with his game and has come up with a new grip.

Jubilating in a quiet way over his 6-3, 5-7, 9-7 job against Hunt yesterday, Shields explained, "I just had to beat Gil today. Two weeks ago at Seabright, he defeated Sid Wood, my partner in the laundry business, so by taking Hunt today, I now become senior partner of the concern."

Shields will meet Bobby Riggs in the round of eight. Riggs defeated Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, 6-4, 6-3. The other upper bracket match brings together Frank Parker and Hank Prusoff, while in the lower bracket: Don McNeill faces Gardner Mulloy and Joe Hunt meets Betsy Grant.

The women quarter-finalists are Helen Jacobs, Dorothy May Bundy, Sarah Palfrey, and Virginia Wolfenden, who meet in that order in the upper-bracket. One of the lower bracket contests pairs Helen Bernhard against Gracey Wheeler, while in the other Paula Buz, will battle Alice Marble or Louise Brough, who play today for the last remaining berth in that round.

Gerondales Defeated by Deleuw Softballers

Kimberly—Deleuws defeated Gerondales softballers 2 to 1 at the ball park last night. The winners got seven hits off Bob Gaffney, pegging for Gerondales. Stanley Behrendt, who played today for the last remaining berth in that round.

The winners scored one run in the second frame when C. Vander Zanden singled. Another was scored on a single by J. Van Eperen. In the fourth frame, Stanley Behrendt got on by a single and scored after the next two batters hit singles.

For Gerondales V. La Blanc got on by a walk, advanced on D. Larson's single and came in when Williams got on by an error. C. Vander Zanden and J. Van Eperen of Deleuws each had a perfect day at bat with two singles.

Randolph Will Assist Patsy Clark With Lions

Detroit, (AP)—George (Patsy) Clark, coach of the Detroit Lions of the National Professional Football league, announced today that Randolph, former Indiana University center who played the pivot post for the Lions for several years, would be assistant coach of the team this season.

Jack Johnson, husky tackle who served as line coach under head coach Dutch Clark two years ago but was replaced last season by Hunk Anderson, will return to his former post, when the pro gridder's brain practice next week.

Derringer, Reds Beaten By Chicago Cubs, 5-3

53,997 Present at Mel Ott Night but Dodgers Tip Giants

By the Associated Press

The Chicago Cubs spoiled Manager Bill McKechnie's 53rd birthday party yesterday with a three-run attack in the tenth inning which downed the National League's leading Cincinnati Reds 5 to 3.

Bill Nicholson and Jimmy Gleason homered for the Cubs during the barrage which cost Paul Derringer his eighth defeat of the season. In the tenth, the Cubs grouped four singles for three runs. Bill Lee was credited with his eighth victory against 13 setbacks. Lou Boudreau, Cleveland shortstop, personally accounted for six runs as the Indians defeated the American League Chicago White Sox 9 to 3, and took the series three games to one. Boudreau hit two homers and a single in five trips to the plate.

A ladies' day crowd of more than 11,000 fans saw Johnny Rigney suffer his thirteenth defeat against 10 victories. Al Smith was the winning Cleveland pitcher although he was removed for Harry Eisenstat in the seventh.

Pirates Look Good

The Pittsburgh Pirates, famous August foldups, are unfolding finally into some semblance of the flower everybody expected from Frankie Frisch. In two days it has swept three games from the St. Louis Cardinals, who up until this week were some hot shakes themselves.

The Pirates have won seven straight and 16 out of their last 20 to get a grip on fifth place.

They nosed out the Cardinals 10-9 in the first game yesterday although they were out of the lead in the eighth. In the ninth, Frisch kept up a stream of substitutions and Spud Davis delivered a pinch scoring two runs in the eighth to win the game. In the nightcap the bold Buccos made a dozen runs on 13 hits to win 12-8. Pitcher Max Butcher batted in four of the tallies himself.

The Brooklyn Dodgers overwhelmed the New York Giants 8-4 in a night game that was intended to honor Mel Ott and drew a crowd of 53,997 to the Polo Grounds. For six innings the affair followed the pattern planned by the committee on arrangements, with Carl Hubbell hurling masterfully and the Giants leading 3-1. Then Brooklyn blasted out five runs in the seventh and kept right on rolling.

It was the Dodgers' sixth win in six games on the Giants' grounds and was credited as Fred Fitzsimmons' eleventh victory against two defeats.

The Boston Bees continued to plague the poor Philadelphia Phillies, taking a night game 6-3 with Eddie Miller and Carvel Rowell each hitting homers with a mate aboard.

The American league race remained unchanged. The pace-setting Detroit Tigers outlasted the St. Louis Browns to win 7-5. The Tigers tallied five of their runs in the third and the Browns got four of theirs in the last three frames but were finally set down by relief pitcher Al Benton with the bases loaded.

New York's tottering Yankees divided a doubleheader at Boston, but it took a three-run rally in the ninth of the nightcap to end their five-game losing streak. The Red Sox won the opener 10-7 with a 16-hit offensive concentrated in the middle innings, but in the second game were slowed down to eight hits by Lefty Matuszko. In the final frame Tom Henrich batted across two Yankee runs with a triple and then scored on a single to give the Yanks a 6-3 triumph.

Philadelphia and Washington were rained out.

LATER STUARTS

Yesterday we spoke of the strange story of the House of Stuart. While ruling Scotland during a period of 232 years, the monarchs met one piece of bad fortune after another. Then the world seemed to smile on the house of Stuart. The son of Mary, Queen of Scots, became the ruler of both England and Scotland.

That change was quite peaceful. The death of Queen Elizabeth left no direct heir to the English throne. James, already the ruler of Scotland, was asked to come to London to be crowned.

The rather quiet and peaceful reign of King James did not mean a lasting change in the story of the House of Stuart. After his death, his son Charles took his place, and Charles went through trouble of an extreme kind.

Mary, Queen of Scots, the mother of King James I.

At that time a new religion was growing up in England. The Puritans had started out to improve the Church of England, but in time they broke into revolt. Their leader, Oliver Cromwell, led his forces to victory on the battlefield. King Charles was captured and put to death.

The king's son, also named Charles, fled to France. Later he sailed to Scotland, and with an army of 10,000 Scots tried an invasion of England. The attempt failed, and Charles fled once more. This time he had narrow escapes from capture by the Puritans while obtaining a vessel to go to France.

After Cromwell died, Charles was asked to come back to England to rule as king. He accepted, and held the throne until his death, 25 years later. In that period the Great Plague visited London, and much of the city was destroyed in the Great Fire.

The changes of power in Great Britain had a great deal to do with early American history. While Cromwell was in control of England, thousands of Cavaliers, members of "the king's party," moved to Virginia and settled there.

Later, the return of Charles caused thousands of Puritans to flee across the Atlantic. They settled in New England, and helped build up the colonies of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Keefe, Johns Oppose Army Draft Measure

Oshkosh Republican Believes Present System Is Adequate

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Congressman Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh Republican, charges that it is the present intention of the administration to use an army, raised and trained under conscription in the West Indies, Central and South America, "as a police force to aid the governments of those countries in the protection of their respective sovereignties."

Furthermore, he asserts, "the administration has purposely refrained from popularizing enlistment in the army, and the service has been made as unattractive as possible in order to stimulate propaganda in behalf of conscription."

"I shall oppose compulsory conscription until the administration demonstrates to the people of this country that the voluntary enlistment plan has fallen down and that such an acute emergency exists that would justify the imposition of a virtual military dictatorship in this democracy."

"I cannot help but feel that the American public and the congress have been kept in the dark as to what the exact threat to our security is and what we are to defend and where." Keefe believes that "the patriotic American people would rise to the occasion in sufficient number to fill the necessary army enlistments by voluntary action, if it were shown to be necessary."

Training in Schools

Agreeing that "there is nothing to show at the present time that voluntary enlistments would not raise an army as large as is needed," Congressman Joshua L. Johns, Algoma Republican, proposes further training for youth in high schools, colleges and universities.

"Discipline is the thing we need most today," he declares. "Such training would take youth away from the idea they were preparing for war. If you put them in camps where they hear nothing but war, they cannot help become militaristic minded."

Referring to the large number of

'THE MORTAL STORM'—The year's most electrifying thrill—"The Mortal Storm" will show at the Appleton theater starting Saturday starring Margaret Sullivan, and James Stewart with Robert Young, Frank Morgan, Maria Ouspenskaya and Irene Rich in the supporting cast. ### Organization Articles Filed by Cram Company

Articles of organization have been filed by the Cram Company, Inc., with Stephen M. Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds. The firm, which will have headquarters in Appleton, will manufacture and sell paper and other mill machinery, equipment and specialties. Capital stock consists of 1,000 shares of no par value. The articles are signed by H. G. Cram, C. T. Anderson and Philip L. Jacobson, Appleton.

Letters he is receiving in opposition to the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill, Johns says. "One could easily believe under the requirements of this bill we might be in a war within 90 days."

"We have criticized Hitler, Stalin and Mussolini for their war-like spirit and the drafting of youth for war purposes instead of a useful life. We now propose to do the same thing."
